ALLIED WAR FLEET BLOCKADES RUSSIA

STORY ON PAGE 2

EVENING AMERICAN, Friday, February 23, 1940 ★ N

ALLIES BLOCKADE RUSSIA

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 23 (AP) — A British-French warship squadron began today a blockade on the northern Russian coast, the newspaper Berlingske Tidende reported, while unconfirmable rumors circulated that a clash with the Soviet Arctic navy already had been precipitated.

The paper said the ships were strung out for a considerable distance along the Arctic coast to prevent shipment of Russian supplies to Germany and to halt any possible attempt to deliver Russian submarines to the German navy.

Presence of allied vessels in that far northern vicinity was confirmed yesterday.

Aside from blocking trade between Germany and her friend, Russia, the British and French are described as aiming to prevent any German ships from taking refuge in Russia—as a number of merchantmen did in the early days of the war.

Until now, it was reported that German merchant carriers had been maintaining steady connections with Murmansk, which is an ice-free port despite its Arctic location on Kola Bay.

SCANDINAVIA "ON SPOT"

Development of the blockade magnified uneasiness of Scandinavian nations over the future of their neutrality.

In view of the bad feeling that resulted from British rescue of captive merchant seamen from the German ship Altmark in Norwegian waters last Friday night, there were apprehensions that any new naval clashes in northern waters could raise further knotty and embarrassing problems for the neutrals.

The British and French contend that Norway's coastline, broken by fjords and screened by offshore islands, offers a comparatively safe highway for German ships from Murmansk and has been used effectively to evade their blockade in the North Sea.

RED NAVY "READY"

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet reported yesterday that the Russian Arctic navy had been prepared for the possibility of war and

30 Women Killed With Red Troops

LONDON, Feb. 23 (INS)—Annihilation of a Soviet detachment including at least 30 women at Syskyjaervi, Finland, was reported by the London Evening Standard in a Stockholm dispatch today.

The Russians, approximating 1000 and including a number of political commissars as well as the women, were surrounded north of Lake Ladoga. They dug tanks into the snow and entrenched themselves behind the ring of steel.

The Finnish commander ordered them to surrender, stating that Finns could not fight against women.

The demand was refused, whereupon the Soviet camp was stormed with bayonets and hand-grenades, the women dying in battle beside the men.

2 Red Battalions Smashed by Finns

HELSINKI, Feb. 23 (AP)—Two Red Army battalions were dispersed with large numbers killed in one battle on the Karelian isthmus and 800 Russians slain in another, the Finnish high command announced today.

The smashig of the two batallions was the result of the repulse of six Russian attacks between the Gulf of Finland and Muloa, westernmost sector of the Mannerheim lines, the Finnish communique said.

The communique, reporting yesterday's action, said that between Lake Muola and Ayrapaanjarvi, "the enemy attacked twice, leaving behind him each time as he withdrew about a battalion killed."

"An enemy force that attacked across Ayrapaanjarvi at Sikniemi was repulsed and lost about 800 killed and about 100 prisoners," the communique continued.

Ayrapaanjarvi is a lake about 22 miles nearly due east of Viipuri and almost midway of the isthmus.

The Finns reported capturing "several new strong points" northeast of Lake Ladoga, with "large quantities of war materials," including 12 guns "and more than 50 machine-guns and submachine-guns, 10 field kitchens, tractors, automobiles and ammunition."

The Finns reported destroying six tanks here and 16 in the isthmus fighting.

Russian war plants raided Issaimi in the home region and killed 12 women and children, the communique said, and also dropped "a few parachute patrols which were either killed or taken prisoner."

DAHL FREE, HEADS FOR U. S. STAGE

MADRID, Feb. 23 (AP)—Plump and ruddy, flier-of-fortune Harold Dahl said today he expected to join his wife in theatrical activities in the United States within two weeks.

Happily puffing an American cigarette, Dahl, released yesterday after nearly three years as a Spanish war prisoner, said he had been "exceptionally well treated"—even though he came within an ace of going before a Franco firing squad.

His beautiful blonde singer-dancer wife, Edith Rogers Dahl, who helped save him by sending her picture to Gen. Franco, is doing a Spanish dance act in a Philadelphia night club.

Dahl and six of eight freed Americans, outfitted with new shoes and clothing, were put on the steamer Exiria at Seville last night, the U. S. embassy was advised, and were expected to sail tonight.

Dahl, who spoke excellent Spanish, said he had come to Spain "just for the adventure."

Recalling the air battle which resulted in his capture by Franco's forces in July, 1937, he said he was forced to parachute to earth when a wing dropped off his plane.

"I enjoyed my 38 months in Spain," Dahl said. "I like the country and I'd like to be able to come back some time."

The American embassy still is receiving many pathetic letters from mothers and other relatives of American youths reported missing during the long conflict.

Hope still lingers that they may be alive, but the embassy's most careful check indicates the eight Americans released yesterday were the last held here.

BRITISH AIRMEN BOMB NAZI SHIPS

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The air ministry announced today that British planes which scouted Helgoland Bight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning bombed German warships and fought off enemy fighting planes.

The Berlin communique Wednesday said early that morning, "Enemy planes from the west and northwest" flew over Helgoland Bight, strategic waters off the northwest German coast, but mentioned nothing of results.

Today the air ministry stated: "As already announced, Royal Air Force aircraft were active over Helgoland Bight during Tuesday night and the early hours of Wednesday.

NO BRITISH LOSSES

"Warships observed near Helgoland were attacked with bombs. Anti-aircraft fire was encountered from ships and from shore batteries.

"One of our aircraft reports having been attacked by three enemy fighters without success and it is believed that one of the enemy fighters was forced down.

"No casualties or damage was suffered by any of our aircraft during the operation, but the homeward journey was made in very bad weather conditions which accounted for failure of one aircraft to return."

It was disclosed, however, that the planes took off from a British airfield in France.

German raiders invaded British territory yesterday and sank the 540-ton naval trawler Fifeshire with the probable loss of 21 men aboard. Only one was known to have been saved.

They also set fire to the 1524-ton Norwegian merchant steamer Akabahra off the English east coast. A coastal lifeboat stood by the ship until the flames were extinguished.

NAZI RAIDERS ROUTED

German planes resumed forays today after the shooting down of two Nazi planes yesterday in raids on the British east coast. One plane was reported off Essex today and another off Norfolk.

Anti-aircraft guns greeted the first plane, which was reported, although without immediate confirmation, to have been shot down.

British fighter planes pursued the second.

A third German bomber flew over Sunderland on the coast of Durham so low that witnesses could discern the swastika on it.

The air ministry announced British planes last night carried out a reconnaissance flight over Austria and Bohemia, the second excursion of the war to have gone so deep into the Reich. The planes took off from a British air field in France, but details were withheld.

MARKED FOR DEATH, WIFE VOWS LOVE FOR SPENCER

Complaints charging murder, four counts of assault with intent to kill, assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a revolver without a license, were sought by Boston police today against Charles E. Spencer, 24-year-old WPA worker.

While the South End man lay in City Hospital, recovering from a chest wound which police said was self-inflicted, Capt. Edward J. Keating of the Warren ave. station and Sgt. John F. Dunleavey of the Milk st. police presented evidence in municipal court concerning the fatal shooting of Dr. Bernhardt B. Glickman, optometrist.

They also described the 30-minute gun battle between Spencer and 75 officers, during which Sgt. James Culleton fell wounded, his jaw shattered by a bullet.

BULLETIN

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Mildred Irene "Dolly" O'Brien, 33-year-old South End widow, was issued in municipal court today after police had named her as a material witness against her alleged "love-triangle" suitor, Charles E. Spencer, accused slayer of a brilliant young Roxbury optometrist.

In another part of the city, grief-stricken relatives and friends of the slain doctor gathered for his funeral today. The services were held at undertaking rooms in Washington st., Dorchester, not far from Dr. Glickman's home in Stanwood st., Roxbury.

Rabbi Myer Levine, who officiated at the marriage of Dr. and Mrs. Glickman only 18 months ago, was asked to conduct the funeral service.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gertrude Spen-

'Black Ace' in Threat To Medford Mayor

Containing a threat to blow up his home, an anonymous letter was received today by Mayor John C. Carr of Medford.

The letter was signed merely "The Black Ace," the designation used by the mysterious assailant who, nearly a month ago, made threats against Mayor Frank E. Lewis of Everett and threw a rock through a window of the Lewis home.

Mayor Carr's letter was addressed to him at Medford City Hall, was marked "Personal" and bore a postmark at Medford, Feb. 22, at 1 a. m.

Typewritten throughout, the letter read:

"My dear Mr. Mayor: For a month I have been bothering Mayor Lewis of Everett. You are next.

"I don't like the way you are runnings things in Medford. I have great plans. Watch me strike. Try and stop me and your house will be blown up.

"(Signed) THE BLACK ACE."

Mayor Carr, not much worried, turned the letter over to Medford police, who hope to trace it through a check of typewriters and other correspondence.

Truck Crashes Back Bay House

In a wild plunge down Grove st., Beacon Hill, a heavy oil truck today crashed into a four-story dwelling in Phillips st., rocking the building from its foundations.

Eight familes were ordered from their homes by District Fire Chief Franklin Sanborn, who feared the building might collapse. The truck became wedged in the front door of a drugstore on the first floor of the building.

Customers in the store at the time had to leave by a side door as hundreds of gallons of oil poured from the wrecked machine.

Thomas J. McLaughlin, operator of the truck, had parked it while making a delivery in Grove st. In some manner the brakes were released and the truck plunged backward.

Secrecy Lid Clamped on Death Quiz

In a sudden and unexplained switch, the announced investigation of a prisoner's mysterious death at Middlesex County House of Correction at Billerica was turned into a star chamber session today.

Although it had been announced the official hearing into the death of Edward J. Kelley in a padded cell would be open to the public, not only the public but the press were excluded at the last minute.

Successive notes sent into the session by reporters, asking the reason for this mysterious action in the probe of a suspicious death, went unanswered.

Just before the session six house of correction guards were called into the room.

OFFICIALS PRESENT

The summons was from Sheriff Joseph McElroy.

Others present included Frank Dwyer, deputy state commissioner of correction; Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert W. Wonderley, representing his chief, Robert Bradford, and Dr. O. S. Marshall, House of Correction physician, who had not been called to attend Kelley.

Medical Examiner Marshall L. Ayling, who viewed the body immediately after the mystery death, is in Florida and was not present.

It was expected that later today the wife of a guard who first informed house of correction officials of strange actions on the part of Kelley as he walked from the dairy to the dormitory would be called as a witness.

HEARING A SURPRISE

Kelley, described as a Carnegie hero medal winner and the "black sheep" of a highly respected Greater Boston family, was found dead Feb. 10 after a 10-hour stay in a padded cell.

The sheriff's action came somewhat as a surprise since previously he had indicated he would wait for a report from Dr. Alan R. Moritz, professor of legal medicine at Har-

FRANCES MARKS
Victim of Strangler

Girl Murder Clues Sought

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—After questioning more than 30 persons throughout the night, police announced today they were without a tangible clue to the death of Frances Marks, 21, a bookkeeper, whose half frozen body was found in a five-foot sewer excavation in Harlem.

All employees of the garage where she worked, as well as neighborhood characters and friends and acquaintances were rounded up by police but hours of questioning produced no clues.

Bruises on the neck and a bluish tint in the face of the victim indicate possible strangulation. The body was covered by a litter of newspapers. The girl's shoes and hat were missing.

Shortly before she left the garage where she had been working Wednesday night, Frances said she had a late date.

DUTCH FIRE ON PLANES

NO 'HAND-OUT' TODAY FROM GOVERNOR AFTER HOLIDAY

If the Governor extends his hand gingerly to greeters today, there'll be a good reason for it.

During the open house at the State House, which commemorated the birth of George Washington, the Gov. and Mrs. Saltonstall shook the hands of 4643 persons, young and old.

Youngest of the greeters was six-months-old Elizabeth Reynolds, who was carried by her mother, Mrs. Viola Reynolds of Dorchester. Oldest was 93-year-old Howard Snow of Marblehead, veteran of the G. A. R.

The governor was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Saltonstall and by Lieut.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill and Mrs. Cahill.

Governor Saltonstall took time out, on two occasions, to rest from the long ordeal of hand-shaking. But he declined an offer of first aid for bathing his hand.

GOV. SALTONSTALL
At Reception

There were 70 units in the reception line, representing military, civic and patriotic groups, firemen and police, Boy and Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, officers of the Army and Navy and National Guard. Commr. of Public Safety Eugene McSweeney led a delegation of state police and Commr. Joseph F. Timilty headed a detail of Boston police.

The 181st Infantry Band of Worcester furnished the official martial music for the reception but numerous other units marched through the historic hall to the music of their own bands.

The governor's war-time outfit, the 301st Field Artillery, rated a special salute from the chief executive as members of the regiment passed by in the receiving line. The American Legion delegation was headed by the Newton post, of which the governor is a charter member, and was followed by the Braintree post, of which Lieut.-Gov. Cahill is a charter member.

Agonized Mother's Baby-Murder Story

Of tragic interest, especially to psychiatrists who seek the key to the fixation that caused Mrs. Betty Hardaker, 25, to slay her 5-year-old daughter, Geraldine, because she believed the child "too good to live," are Mrs. Hardaker's own words about the dreadful act.

The Boston Evening American presents herewith the young mother's own pitifully jumbled, disordered story of the slaying and the thoughts that seethe in her obviously diseased mind because that story is a document of unquestioned medico-legal importance.

By BETTY T. HARDAKER
(Special to the Boston Evening American)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23—Geraldine was my first born. I was very proud of her. I loved her the most. She is with God now and I don't want to live anymore.

I just lost control of myself. I didn't want her ever to suffer.

The thing I remember most was that she looked very, very precious, she looked just too precious for me. I didn't look at her when she was on the floor. I couldn't look at her after she was gone. I couldn't look at her and let her live.

She isn't really gone, though, she is in heaven now. I really and truly feel that she is much happier there.

As for me, I am looking forward to knowing nothing—just knowing nothing would be very wonderful to me—for I just can't seem to say the right thing that would make everything all right.

SEES FLYING PIGS

When I lie down I can feel and hear little red sparks turning around the words "let me see her now, let me see her now." When I go to sleep I wake up and think I am going to explode.

I see flying pigs and brown and green and blue stars and pencils—my head feels like it is going to pop open, just like a jackpot, and fly everywhere.

At my trial I am going to tell the truth the best way I can—if I am still alive then. I don't think I will be here much longer. There must be some justice that will end my life.

It seems that I am always a nuisance to everyone that I love.

LOVED HER HUSBAND

My husband said I was crazy to go to church. He said only sissies went to church. I begged him to go to church with me and to be reborn again and to save his money but he wouldn't listen to me.

I am so broken-hearted over that that I don't want to live. I loved my husband as much as any woman could love a man and live. I want to emphasize that.

I had a beautiful dream night-before last. I dreamed that little Geraldine had a beautiful golden rod in her hand. She was leading a parade and kept asking me to come on, come on, and I could only reply to her that I am nothing but a nothing.

She almost pulled me into something beautiful. She looked very, very royal. She seemed to be of the royalty. It seems to me that I have made her happier now.

Indict 50 in High Building Costs Probe

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23 (INS)—The special federal grand jury investigating high building costs in the Pittsburgh area struck out against the millwork industry today, indicting 50 defendants, including the president and nine officers of the Carpenters' International Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

They were accused of conspiracy and monopolistic combinations to maintain high costs. Two trade associations, the Lumber Institute of Allegheny County and the Master Builders Ass'n, were charged with maintaining the alleged conspiracy during the past three years.

URGES 'PSYCHIC' GUIDANCE FOR ALL BOSSES

Imagine hiring somebody to tell the boss what to do!

Yet, some bosses need guidance in handling people, Dr. Temple Burling of New York, told the American Orthopsychiatric Ass'n in convention at Hotel Statler today.

"Many current devices for handling employes are contrary to basic mental hygienic principles," Dr. Burling said. "Executives, like parents and teachers, often play favorites, use sarcasm, punish the group for a misdemeanor of an individual, have a naive faith in the effectiveness of admonition."

Dr. Burling said he was convinced a large organization can profitably employ a psychiatrist to give the individual executive "the reorganization of personality necessary if he is to be enabled to behave in accordance with the principles of handling people."

The housewife holds one of the most "thankless" jobs there is, and, because the job is "taken for granted," it is one of the most unsatisfying of all the arts and professions, Dr. Everett S. Rademacher, internationally known psychiatrist declared.

The convention brought thousands of psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers from all over the country to discuss ways and means of deceasing juvenile delinquency.

More than 9 out of every 100 child delinquents treated in Boston are saved from a possible life of crime by preset means of dealing with juvenile delinquency. Dr. William Healy, famous psychiatrist, declared.

PLAN $100,000 FUND TO 'PURGE' DIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (INS)—Chairman Martin Dies, of the committee investigating un-American activities, today revealed a CIO official had served notice on him that a $100,000 fund was going to be spent in the coming Texas primary elections in a drive to purge him from the House.

Harvey Fremming, of San Francisco, head of the CIO's Oil and Refinery Workers' Union, delivered the message personally to Dies. Long before Dies became chairman of the special House committee, he and Fremming were close friends.

Fremming told International News Service he had discussed the Texan's political situation with Dies, and predicted "there will be plenty of candidates against him, including those backed by the CIO."

He denied he would lead the campaign to oust Dies from his seat in the second Texas district, but frankly said that a high official, probably Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, would be the brains behind it.

Winthrop in Uproar Over New Bus Plan

Out of the smoke of a fiery mass meeting at Winthrop today was revealed a proposition by a "New York bus company" to take over the right of way of the defunct Narrow Gauge railway and provide an express bus route from Boston to all parts of Winthrop.

Chairman Frederick I. Crocker of the town's transportation committee, who anounced the plan, said the company would macadamize the right of way.

However, Frederick C. Fisher, town counsel, declared the company referred to was the "Winthrop Transportation Co.," which, he said, had been incorporated only 24 hours before the Saugus Transit Co. was granted a temporary bus permit during the emergency following the Narrow Gauge shutdown.

Fisher charged the company had no equipment. In reply, Crocker said the company he referred to now operated 200 buses.

HOT WORDS FLY

Hot words flew between town officials during the three-hour meeting attended by some 500 Winthrop citizens.

Selectman Ross Batchelder at one point attempted to explain that he and Selectman David Belcher, constituting a majority, had granted a permit last Monday for the Saugus Transit Co. to continue its present service because of need for immediate action.

Pointing out the 60-day permit expires March 27, Batchelder said approval of the Boston City Council and department of public utilities is required to make such a permit permanent.

LIE IS PASSED

"Liar!" interrupted someone in the audience.

At another point, Crocker clapped a hand over Selectman Baker's mouth to block fiery words Baker hurled at Town Counsel Fisher.

At the time, Baker, who did not join his fellow selectmen in granting the permanent permit, and Fischer were arguing over the action.

The citizens voted for some changes in the present bus routes.

Speaking for the bus company, Judge Charles E. Flynn said that if the city of Boston would grant a permanent permit to operate over streets of East Boston, the company would purchase $130,000 worth of new equipment and hire about 12 more Winthrop men.

Fare reductions would be made when conditions make it possible, he said.

Doctor's Skeleton Haunts Boy Bandits

LOWELL, Feb. 23—Two juveniles questioned about several house breaks in the highlands section today admitted several of the burglaries, one of which may never be forgotten, police said.

While prowling through the home of Dr. Forster H. Smith in Middlesex st. the boys allegedly confessed they opened a closet door to find a grinning skeleton.

Antarctica Peak Named for Ware Boy

WARE, Feb. 23—Probably without precedent was the distinction held today by three-year-old Mark Hawthorne.

One of the new peaks discovered in Antarctica by the U. S. expedition under Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has been named for the boy. Mark is the son of Roger Hawthorne, official recorder of the expedition.

Hotel Paymaster Faces Dual Charges

Troubles piled up today for Wallace E. Slater, former assistant paymaster at a Back Bay hotel who was returned from Florida after he allegedly disappeared with $900 which was to have been paid to hotel workers.

In addition to larceny charges, Slater, of Allston st., Dorchester, was charged with armed robbery of a Park sq. liquor establishment and a Boylston st., Back Bay, drug store. Police said he would also be placed in the lineup in efforts to link him with other holdups.

CITY ACTS TO TRAP SNOW RACKETEERS

In a surprise move to block any attempts by snow removal racketeers to collect cash for alleged services during the Valentine Day blizzard, City Treasurer J. Joseph McCarthy today announced all payments would be made by check.

With his office force working in two shifts over the week-end, McCarthy said he expects to start the first payments Monday. About 13,000 checks will be made out, and all recipients will be required to identify themselves.

USED MANY NAMES

The city treasurer believes the use of checks will discourage racketeers because they will have to endorse the paper and thus lay themselves open to forgery charges.

His move followed charges that racketeers had used a variety of names in signing up for snow removal. The payrolls are now being checked by the public works department and City Auditor Charles J. Fox.

One man is reported to have obtained eight different snow buttons under as many names. He planned to collect the salary of all eight, amounting to more than $200, according to charges.

The public works department has shrouded its probe in secrecy, but it was reported that several time-keepers and minor officials will be summoned to City Hall for questioning.

WATCH OTHERS WORK

From one gang of snow shovelers to another the racketeers conducted their operations immediately after the blizzard, hoping to escape detection during the confusion which they expected to result from the emergency call for shovelers.

Reporting for work early, the men stayed with one gang long enough for the project supervisor to make his checkup. Then they moved to another group, registering again.

Their rounds completed, the racketeers, according to reports, stood on street corners watching the progress of legitimate laborers trying to earn an honest day's pay.

LEADS TO INQUIRY

First intimation such a racket was being operated came during a City Council meeting last Monday when Councilor James S. Coffey of East Boston sponsored an order requesting the Boston Finance Commission to probe the matter.

His order was blocked, however, when councilors instead amended it to authorize the council's executive committee to conduct the probe. After the council refused to act immediately on the matter, Coffey angrily withdrew his order.

Coffey's charges, however, led to a probe by the public works department.

Lyncher Draws "Death's Ball"

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 23 (AP)—Francisco Mamani, convicted of lynching a man who robbed him, must die because he drew a black ball from the "anfora reos" (criminal vase).

Mamani and Julio Zegarra killed Domingo Quispe, who was reported to have robbed Mamani and set fire to Zegarra's home.

Under Bolivian law when two persons are convicted of one murder they draw lots to determine who dies. The draw was held in court yesterday.

$14,000,000 IN U. S. GERMAN MAIL SEIZED IN BERMUDA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (INS)—The British government has confiscated American mail addressed to Germany containing between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000, Sen. Pepper (D.) of Florida of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asserted today.

Pepper, who investigated the mail seizures, said the money was enclosed in mail taken by the British from American transatlantic flying Clippers at Bermuda. He said his information came from officials of Pan-American Airways, operators o the airline.

Most of the money, said Pepper, was enclosed in plain envelopes headed for Germany. Some of the enclosures were unsigned he said.

MOSTLY IN BILLS

A considerable part of the money was in bills of $100 denomination, and there were a few $1000 bills, Pepper said. Very few of the missives were registered or insured.

"Apparently most of this money was sent to Germany my sympathizers in America," he said. "My information is that a steady stream of such mail has been moving out of the United States, and that much of it, if not all, has been stopped by the British authorities in Bermuda.

"My information is that the British have confiscated between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000 in mail addresned to Germany."

Neither Pepper nor other members of the Foreign Relations Committee challenged the right of the British to confiscate money headed for Germany, although a rising wave of irritation at British censorship tactics was evident in both Houses of Congress.

ADMITS BRITISH RIGHT

Chairman Pittman (D.), Nevada, of the foreign relations committee said the British had a perfect right to search American airplanes landing at Bermuda and could legally confiscate mail headed for Germany. Mail addressed to neutrals, said Pittman, could not legally be taken.

Most Senate Democratic leaders opposed pending proposals to compel the Trans-Atlantic Airline to omit Bermuda on the crossing, making the first stop at the Portugal-owned Azores Islands.

Pittman, Pepper and Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said the State Department was handling the situation.

HAPPY—The long fight of Mrs. Edith Dahl, above, to win freedom for her husband, Harold Dahl, flier held prisoner by General Franco in Spain, was successful today. He'll start for U. S. soon.

Blockade Defended In Britain's Reply to U.S.

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Britain's reply to the United States' protest against the Allied blockade of German exports was reliably understood today to be a defense of the blockade as a reprisal for alleged German violations of the rules of war at sea.

The reply was handed yesterday to Herschel Johnson, United States charge d'affaires, for forwarding to Washington. Its contents have not been officially disclosed.

Authoritative British sources said they were at a loss to account for the "belated" stir in the United States over published accounts of a bayonet-point search of the American Clipper at Bermuda Jan. 18 for mail censorship.

These sources asserted that they still were without information of the incident through official channels. It was added that they did not regard the Bermuda incident as covered by Washington's recent protest over search of the mails, since that did not concern mails that normally pass through British territory but dealt with mail on ships forced into contraband controls or stopped on the high sea.

Norway Opens Probe Of Altmark Incident

OSLO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Norwegian authorities today opened a formal investigation at Akersund, near Gjossingford, of the British raid last Friday on the German prison ship Altmark.

Norwegian naval officers and eyewitnesses of the encounter between the British destroyer Cossack and the Altmark, in which British prisoners aboard the Altmark were seized, will be questioned.

5 Planets In Sky Show Tonight

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—A show that comes once in a century starts tonight, to continue the rest of February.

It is five prominent stars in the west, just after sunset, forming in a long, staggered string above the place where the sun goes down.

The five are all the planets that are ever visible without telescopes. They are, in order upward from the sunset spot, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

CHANGE POSITIONS

Their line is diagonal, leaning off toward the south as to the onlooker's left and at the start tonight the top of the string of celestial lanterns is well up toward the overhead point.

These five stars continually change their positions in the sky due to their rotation around the sun. It is seldom that they get launched. The lunching is only apparent, due to the fact that they are all in the same direction in space from the earth.

Mercury is actually very close to the sun so it appears to be in this show. Later next June however it will be much farther away from Mercury farther out, space than Mercury.

Jupiter looks bright because he is the largest of the planets. Mercury's diameter is 3,000 miles. Jupiter's 86,700.

Venus, third in the upward chain is comparatively close and looks larger than Jupiter for that reason. Her diameter is 7,600 miles.

VENUS IS LARGEST

Next upward Saturn the second largest of the planets, with a diameter of 75,100 miles, is not very bright because of distance. Saturn tonight is approximately 900,000,000 miles away in the line of sight.

Last is Mars, the red planet, which was very large and brilliant last July when 36,000,000 miles distant from the earth. Mars tonight is much farther away and not nearly so bright as then. Mars' diameter is 4,200 miles.

Of all the planets in the show Venus is the only one of a size nearly like the earth. Her diameter is 327 miles less.

Target Practice Victim Loses Eye

FRAMINGHAM, Feb. 23—Shot [illegible] taking part in target practice, Eugene Langley, 12, today suffered the loss of his right eye. It was said the shooting was accidental. A bullet from the rifle of Stanley Moore, 13, ricocheted and penetrated young Langley's eye while the boys were shooting in the cellar of Moore's home.

'ONE-PUNCH 'DAVID' KAYOES 'GOLIATH' IN SUBWAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—A giant longshoreman suddenly went berserk in a subway train speeding over the Manhattan Bridge, and cursed and slashed several frightened, screaming passengers with a bale hook until a smallish fireman knocked him out with a single blow.

The longshoreman, 6 feet tall and weighing 250 pounds, is John Schneider, 50. "David" to this "Goliath" is Harry Ahearn, 5 feet 7 and weighing 150 pounds.

More than a hundred persons were in the car when Scheider suddenly became abusive. He pulled out his long bale hook and started swinging it, cutting several persons. A few women fainted. Eventually, all huddled into the doorway zones of the car.

Ahearn stepped up to Schneider and attempted to pacify him. The words fell on deaf ears, and the big man lifted his hook as though to decapitate the fireman. Ahearn took one punch.

Hits Blast Danger on Cape Cod

[illegible] of a ton and a [illegible] of [illegible] gun ammu[illegible] the State Pier at [illegible] to blow up [illegible] Canal"—was revealed today by Governor's Councilor Daniel H. Coakley.

[illegible] was stored at the pier [illegible] at the regular [illegible] Wednesday but did [illegible] known because the [illegible] closed to the public. [illegible] sion also brought out charges that the federal government was "stuck [illegible]" National Guard regiments here with large quantities of explosives, including traced bullets for anti-aircraft machine guns.

Councilor Edgar Lindsay of Brockton brought the matter to the attention of the council and when Gov. Saltonstall was told he immediately ordered the ammunition removed from the state pier. If an explosion had occurred it might have wrecked the Cape Cod canal, the councilors agreed.

The 37,500 rounds of ammunition was moved from the pier to the National Guard reservation at Bourne.

"It was just like leaving dynamite on a sidewalk," said Coakley today.

"They could just as well have stored it under guard at the reservation. Instead, they left it at the pier, where any crackpot or subversive agent might have touched it off. You can imagine what would have happened if a ton and a quarter of that stuff had gone up."

National guard officials said today they had not considered the ammunition dangerous. It was stored in a room, under locks and only two keys, they said, were in existence.

"I consider the incident closed," said Coakley, "but I still say it was just plain boneheaded to have stored it there in the first place."

Allies Blockade Russian Port

that Admiral Nikolai Kuznetzoff, naval affairs commissar, had flown to Murmansk to inspect it.

The Scandinavian countries are coming to the foreboding view that almost anything can happen in the waters of northren Europe.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter voiced the hope that the Scandinavian foreign ministers, who are to confer in Copenhagen, Saturday and Sunday, would agree on uniform rules for the treatment of belligerents' ships in territorial waters.

British Officials Silent on Blockade

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Authoritative British sources today declined to discuss Copenhagen reports that a new British blockade had been clamped upon Russia's Arctic coast.

Unofficialy, it was said that such a blockade presumably would be aimed at shipment of supplies from Russia.

Snow-Trapped Woman Saved

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 23—Victorious in a ten-hour struggle through deep drifts, rescue squads today reached a lonely Burrillville farmhouse where a woman lay sick and helpless for a week, imprisoned by the snow.

State Patrolmen Leo Colle and William Sullivan of the Chepatchet State police barracks, on a snowshoe patrol of remote sections in search of families requiring supplies or medical aid, found Mrs Evelyn MacKenzie, 52, ill in her home.

There was no heat in the house and the gasoline-driven electric plant had failed. So serious was the woman's condition, because of pneumonia they dared not move her.

One trooper gave her first aid and remained on guard while the other hiked to Burrillville village, three miles away, for help.

Split in Democrats Seen on New Slate

A new break among Democrats here over the slate of delegates to the national convention brewed today.

A set of delegates officially unpledged but supporting President Roosevelt will be entered in the 4th district in opposition to the Farley slate, it was announced in Worcester by Edward A. Ryan.

Ryan charged the slate pledged to Farley throughout the state and organized from ranking party leaders by William H. Burke, Jr., Democratic state chairman, was "handpicked." His group does not expect the formal approval of the President and hence will be unpledged, Ryan said.

Chairman Burke announced committee in charge of arrangements will consist of William F. Brophy of Boston, chairman; State Sen. Patrick McDonough of South Boston, treasurer, and Joseph F O'Connell of Boston, secretary.

Meanwhile, the story published in a Providence, R. I., newspaper that President Roosevelt is personally directing selection of delegates to the national convention was generally denied.

Former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E Kelly, who conferred Monday with Farley at Miami Beach, branded the story as a "figment of someone's imagination."

"I know Farley would give way to the President, if necessary, but he is not acting as a stooge, as that article would infer," Kelly added.

Former Gov. Hurley refused to comment beyond stating he had accepted an invitation to serve on the Farley slate.

"It is foolish even to deny such a statement," said Chairman Burke.

The Massachusetts delegation includes ex-Gov. Joseph B. Ely, long a foe of the Roosevelt administration. He refused any comment.

It likewise includes ex-Gov. James M. Curley who said:

"I do not think there is any foundation for the report."

The newspaper article stated

"New England, which a month ago was a Farley stronghold, seems to be almost in Roosevelt's pocket."

United Air Lines, the nation's oldest airline, and the first to fly coast-to-coast, proposes, subject to approval by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, to give Boston and New England their first direct east and west transcontinental plane service over a natural trade route, without detouring via New York. Then Boston will be on the Main Line Airway to Cleveland, Chicago, Denver, California and the Pacific Northwest.

Numerous requests for this additional service, made by New England cities and organizations, led United to file a petition for authority to operate air-mail-passenger-express Mainliners over this direct route.

United proposes to give Boston and New England cities direct east-west transcontinental flights by a major airline with an unmatched record of 150,000,000 miles of flying, including 30,000 coast-to-coast flights. And United's experience and record are supplemented by financial resources that will insure New England's having the finest equipment and service.

TONY MARTIN AND ALICE FAYE
She Plans Suit for Divorce

ROWE TO SPEAK

Edward M. Rowe, president of the Cambridge Bar Association, will speak on "Republican Opportunities in 1940" to the Junior Unit of the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club on Tuesday evening, February 27, at 46 Beacon st.

Alice Faye To Divorce Tony Martin

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 (AP) — The tuneful romance of blues singer Alice Faye and her handsome, radio-crooning husband, Tony Martin, has come to a discordant ending. Alice plans to get a divorce.

The blonde actress and the dark-haired radio star, who also has achieved prominence in the movies, eloped to Yuma, Ariz. Sept. 3, 1937. Neither had been married before. But their music careers, linked at first, finally pulled them apart.

Martin's radio and orchestra work kept him constantly "on the road" or in the East.

Alice banned by her studio from radio appearances which interfered with her acting career, remained close to Hollywood and the films which during 1939 elevated her to seventh place in stars' box office ranking.

After laughing off many reports within recent months that they were estranged, Miss Faye announced last night that she had instructed her attorney, Jules Goldstone, to file suit for divorce today or tomorrow, charging incompatibility. She said Martin would not contest the suit.

"It was inevitable," said Miss Faye, "that we should part.

"Tony's a grand person, but we simply didn't have a marriage."

Martin, now working at Miami, Fla., said by telephone before departing by plane for New York:

"We did our best to make a go of it. Our separate careers kept us apart—there doesn't appear to be anything else but a divorce.

"It's too bad, but I wish Alice the very best of luck."

Funeral Planned For Thomas Flynn

Funeral services were being arranged today for Thomas Flynn, retired member of the Framingham fire department who died at his home in Saxonville. He had been in ill health for several years. His widow, a daughter, son and a brother, William P. Flynn of Lynn, survive.

New Snow Storm On Way--Perhaps

Don't look now—but before the week-end is over, Boston and New England may have more snow, if a storm centered over western Kansas gets any ideas in this direction.

If this storm isstdetracked somewhere, Boston will have a fair week-end with moderately cool temperatures.

Light snow was falling today from the Great Lakes regions southward from the Ohio Valley to eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina, but over most of the Atlantic states it was clear.

With the rest of New England "dug out," Boston and suburban cities took advantage of the holiday lull in traffic to throw emergency crews into a "mopping up" operation of clearing the last of snow from private ways and intersections to permit normal resumption of traffic.

Rubber Boots --And Saddles

GROVE CITY, Pa., Feb. 23 (AP) — The Grove City Brass and Bronze Company announced it is making castings to fill an order for 4000 rubber boots for horses in the Finnish army.

Company officials said the boots, first of their kind ever made, are to protect the animals from a corrosive gas that collects on battlegrounds. The gas attacks the hooves, crippling the horses.

The boots are 16 inches high, laced with rawhide.

Rush 'Music Battle' Plans to Aid Finns

Cheered by receipt of $1510 despite the handicap of snow-clogged streets, officials of the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., today rushed plans for the Theatrical Ball and Battle of Music to be held in Boston Garden next Thursday.

Fall River Police Hunt Boudoir Bandit

FALL RIVER, Feb. 23—A snarling burglar who threatened two girls with death and fled from their rooms in Cherry street with $33 was being sought here today.

The Misses Evelyn Sawyer, 24, and Marian Bendixon, 25, told police they had just retired when the figure entered their second floor room through the door. He stifled their screams by pulling blankets over their heads.

INJURED SCOUT—Suffering an injured leg in coasting accident, Boy Scout Mortimer Downey, Jr., 13, of Belmont, tells his sister, Clare, how fellow scouts rallied round. They administered first aid to his wound, and then, using a toboggan as a stretcher, carried the boy over a mile through Waltham woodland to reach help.

Dever Urges N. H. to Yield

Atty. Gen. Dever today suggested the New Haven railroad yield to the state's decision reopening 32 stations on the Old Colony branch and withdraw their petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission for abandonment of the branch.

Through his aide, Asst. Atty. Gen. Edward O. Proctor, Dever pointed out that he had defeated a ruling of the federal district court in Connecticut ordering all 88 stations on the Old Colony closed, and that this victory in the Supreme Court returned the service to 2,000,000 commuters.

The decision of the State Department of Public Utilities was praised by Gov. Saltonstall as "well worth a trial."

Dever's office expressed hopes the railroad would realize sufficient savings from the closed 56 stations to eventually reopen some and would lead them to withdraw their I. C. C. petition.

Boy Recovers In Sled Toss

Carried more than a mile on a toboggan by five fellow Boy Scouts after he injured a leg while coasting, 13-year-old Mortimer J. Downey, Jr., of Jonathan st., Belmont, was recuperating at his home today.

The boy was hurled off a toboggan in the woodland off Waverley Oaks rd., Waltham, and was helpless in a drift with one leg twisted under him.

John Donovan of Ritley rd., Belmont, the scoutmaster, supervised first aid treatment and with the other Scouts lifted the boy on the toboggan and hauled him to the Waverly Oaks Reservation.

F. D. R. Honors Washington

ABOARD THE U. S. S LANG, Feb. 23 (AP)—Crew members of President Roosevelt's vacation fleet celebrated Washington's Birthday with a day-long sports program.

The cruiser Tuscaloosa remained anchored off a Costa Rican island for the third successive day. The Tuscaloosa and its attendant destroyer, the Lang and the Jouett, flew pennants in honor of the holiday but omitted the navy's usual 21-gun salute so that the island's wild life would not be disturbed.

The President started the day with a fishing expedition, he and his party landing two small fish and three big gannets. Later he and his aides judged boxing bouts

British War Head Tear Gas Victim

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—War Secretary Oliver Stanley shed many a tear today when he was caught without his gas mask in the midst of a tear gas demonstration.

He had left the mask in his car while he went to a shooting range to try out the Czech Bren light machine gun, now being manufactured in Canada.

Son James Denies He Plans to Marry Nurse

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, declared here that he had "no plans at all" to marry Miss Romelle Schneider, who was his nurse at the Mayo Brothers Clinic in Rochester, Minn., last year.

Young Roosevelt recently filed suit for divorce and his wife, Betsey Cushing Roosevelt, shortly afterward filed counter-suit. Both charged desertion.

Questioned about his future plans, Roosevelt said he planned to remain a bachelor and "stick to producing pictures."

Miss Schneider, who has been his frequent companion in Hollywood, he said "is a very good friend of mine."

Asked if he would withdraw his suit for divorce, he said that "I can't give you anything at all."

Son James was willing to discuss that "third term" topic—but says even he doesn't know his father's plans. He touched upon presidential third terms in general with a reference to George Washington.

He read what Washington gave as the reason he was impelled to retire after two terms, and then said:

"That, I know, you have seen and I have seen as the reason a certain gentleman should declare himself."

He termed Washington's decision one anyone burdened with executive responsibility might make, and said

"After a number of years, the weight of that responsibility becomes increasingly heavy, and makes one wonder if he ought not to retire—and yet there is also the question of duty to country."

London Blast Laid To Cold Weather

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Freezing weather, uncommon in London, was officially cited today as the probable cause of the explosion Jan 18, which killed five persons in the royal gunpowder plant at Waltham Abbey.

Col. J. C. Pellereau, military assistant to the chief superintendent of ordnance factories, said a court of inquiry had concluded that an employe working with frozen nitroglycerine had failed to recognize the special danger.

France Decorates First War 'Ace'

PARIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—France's first war "ace" was decorated today for having shot down four German planes.

Sergt Edouard Sales won a citation and the Croix de Guerre. The official journal said his fourth victim fell in flames after he had chased the Nazi plane 12 miles into German territory.

Illness Sends Tobin Winging Back South

Ordered to return to warmer climes by his physician when a further decline in his physical condition was noted, Mayor Tobin today was winging his way to Florida in an airliner.

The mayor left the Boston airport without being interviewed, but a statement was released by his secretary, Cornelius Reardon.

"He flew back to Boston last week against the orders of his physician to direct the snow removal work," Reardon said. "When the left he was in worse physical condition than when he orignally went to Florida.

"Since his return a week ago, the mayor had had little sleep. He was up until daybreak daily, personally supervising the snow removal work and had his first full night's sleep on Wednesday.

"The mayor has been troubled all winter with a very heavy cold and several weeks ago he was ordered south by his physician, but he kept delaying his vacation in order to submit the budget to the City Council."

'Red Rose' Slaying Motive Is Mystery

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 23 (AP)—Police listed the killing of a 17-year-old Texas girl at Los Angeles last Dec. 28 as solved today with the arrest of John Frank Reavis, 25, a musician, but the motive for the crime remained a mystery.

Reavis, arrested yesterday in Balboa Park Zoo, admitted he "flew into a rage" and stabbed Alice "Jerry" Burns to death, Detective Captain Harry J. Kelly said, but appeared puzzled when pressed for a motive.

"We were sitting in the car," Reaves told Kelly, "and all of a sudden, for what reason I don't know, we both became terribly angry.

"We began struggling, left the car and continued struggling in an empty lot. I seemed to be in a daze. The next thing I remember I had a knife in my hand." He admitted they had been drinking.

The girl's nude body was found in a lot, a crushed artificial rose under her head.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Woodruff of Fort Worth, Tex., and had been married twice, the first time at the age of 14. She had been working as an entertainer in a downtown Los Angeles barroom.

Reavis, son of T. F. Reavis of Indianapolis, Ind., had two black eyes as the result of what he termed a "friendly misunderstanding."

MORE DIE IN TURK QUAKES

ANKARA, Feb. 23 (AP)—Six new earth shocks in Central Anatolia in Asiatic Turkey today caused widespread damage and increased a steadily mounting death toll to nearly 200.

Hardest hit by the new quakes were the villages of Kulpak, Kizik and Sindernike, where scarcely a house was left standing.

Thousands have been left homeless by the series of tremors which, starting Wednesday, have virtually destroyed nine villages and badly damaged several others.

France Urges Bridal For Dead War Heroes

PARIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—Soldiers and sailors can be married in France after they're dead, if a proposed measure now being considered by a Chamber of Deputies committee passes.

The bill is designed to legitimize children and enable widows to draw pensions. The law would stipulate that the men express their wish to marry before they die.

Memo from Harry E. Wilken

Have You Tried This new Idea

"You can size up quality from a good sample," Pa Wilken used to say—which gave us who carry on his work the idea of asking you to taste a drink of Our Family's Whiskey before you buy a bottle. Try it at any good place for only around 15c. If it suits you for mildness and flavor you'll probably want to buy a bottle to take home.

IT'S THE OLD FAMILY ALBUM

and Pa showing Harry Jr. and William and Tom how funny and backwoodsy we all looked when Grandpa was showing him a thing or two about making good whiskey
Harry E. Wilken

Before us boys were born Pa was making whiskey

Yes sir, that old tintype took us back to the days when Grandpa was showing Pa the ropes of distilling good whiskey, just as he showed us boys. He always said it pays to be fussy every mite of the time when you want a thing done just so—and that's our motto; and that's why Wilken Family Whiskey always tastes so mild and honey-smooth. Just see yourself if I'm not right. Harry E. Wilken

How to Get Road Cleared

HOLDEN, Feb. 23 - On a report that a resident of Newton rd. was ill, an emergency crew of the Holden highway department worked feverishly to clear that remote section of snow in record time.

But after a checkup, workmen failed to find a single person who needed medical attention.

"Somebody pulled a fast one to get the road cleared," grumbled officials.

Wins Prize With Her Story of the Blizzard

Shoveling your car out of a drift, shoveling your driveway and shoveling your walks are bad enough—but how about shoveling a snowdrift out of your house, one that goes half way upstairs toward the second floor?

The blizzard experience of Flora Kelley of Belmont st., Watertown, rates a $1 award today for its publication.

You, too, might win a similar award for sending in a letter with your experience in the Valentine Day blizzard. Send your letters to the Blizzard Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, and each letter published wins $1.

Flora Kelley writes:

"I love a storm and all the excitement that goes with it. I live on a corner, where the traffic is heavy, and I had great fun watching the storm and tieups.

"My brother, a highway man, was called out at 4 a. m. He awoke me and told me the front door was open, the high wind having blown it open.

WINS SNOW BATTLE

"I ran downstairs with the intention of closing it, but to my surprise I found a high drift had formed in front of the door and half way up the stairs.

"I awoke my son and we worked half an hour shoveling and sweeping. All the while, the wind was blowing more snow in. I was half frozen, as I still was only clad in pajamas, housecoat and slippers.

"Finally we won over the elements. I was having such fun and excitement that I stayed up and watched others tackle good old Mother Nature."

SNOW WATER COFFEE

Not quite as exciting, but still unusual, was the experience of Mrs. James Lynch of Second st., Medford. She writes:

"We woke up snowed in, as was most everyone, but the payoff was we had not a drop of water in the house. The water main on the street had broken and flooded our neighbors' cellars.

"The city men were digging, ploughing and shoveling the best they could, but we didn't have water for 24 hours. The milk man hadn't arrived. What would we do for a hot drink for breakfast?

"So I went out in the yard to the nice, clean snow, filled a pan with it and melted it down, boiled it steadily and got the cleanest water we had ever seen.

"I poured it in my glass coffee brewer, made the coffee in the usual way. I was a little afraid we might not like it. (Of course, I hadn't told my husband.)

"But I can honestly say it was the best coffee I have ever tasted."

MOTHER WAS RIGHT

Violet Apablasa of Franklin discovered through the storm that mother knows best.

"My mother told me not to go," writes Violet, "but this was the night the Franklin high school basketball team was to play Blackstone high.

"I pleaded with my mother, but she still wouldn't let me go. I was angry, so I went to my room, dressed up and went.

"I couldn't see anything but white flakes. The snow was beating my face. My hat blew off.

"I began to feel sick. What was I to do? I started walking faster, and my hat blew off again. As I started running after it, I fell in a ditch. My ankle was sprained.

"I felt sicker. My hat was out of sight, so I gave up my search to return home. When I arrived, I bathed my foot, took some medicine and went to bed.

"I was very lucky that I did not see the game, because later I heard that the Blackstone team was marooned and was unable to return home until the next day."

5 Girls, 136 Men Nabbed in Raid

NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 23.—In one of the most spectacular raids of its kind in State police history, dozens of officers swooped down on an allegedly immoral show today, seizing 136 persons, including five women performers.

Later, Judge Walter L. Considine discharged 130 men spectators when they appeared before him in court, declaring he would not hurt the chances of many of their number who were seeking to become American citizens.

At the show, near pandemonium reigned when State Police Corp. Edward L. McTiddy pulled out a police whistle and blew the signal.

Booked as the promoter of the alleged immoral show was Frank Souza of Rivet st., New Bedford. Judge Considine charged Souza $100 for staging the show and the girls $25 each for appearing in it.

Cold Halts Eviction Of Merriwell Author

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Because he was suffering from a bad cold, eviction proceedings against George W. Patten, 74, who wrote the Frank Merriwell books under the name of Burt L. Standish were postponed today until March 1.

The action to dispossess the author was brought last week by the Hudson View Gardens, Inc., which alleged Patten owned $430 assessments on his $8500 apartment.

THE MEETING of the foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark in Copenhagen indicates that Scandinavian leaders are being drawn together by their common dangers.

This is better late than never, and it would probably be NEVER if they waited much longer.

The Scandinavian countries have certain realities to face in connection with the Russian invasion, and threatened conquest, of Finland.

They are to be admired for honestly trying to maintain their neutrality in the Western European conflict.

That is not their war, and they are well off to keep out of it, even though doing so means submission to unwarranted belligerent acts.

But the Russian assault on Finland is very much THEIR WAR.

They have the choice of standing with Finland against Russia, or of standing alone after Finland is defeated.

Russia has no intention of stopping with a conquest of Finland.

Russia will stop only where she IS STOPPED BY RESISTANCE SUPERIOR TO HER INVADING FORCE.

It might be possible to stop Russia in Finland, but not if Finland fights alone.

If each of the Scandinavian countries elects to meet the Russian attack by its own means when its own borders are crossed, the ultimate result is not difficult to foresee.

The gathering of Scandinavian statesmen in Copenhagen is therefore aptly described by International News Service as a "momentous conference which may knit the three Scandinavian countries closer together in concerted measures to save their neutrality from the multiplying perils besetting them from all sides."

But it is not mere "neutrality" which they must save in the face of Russia's invading Asiatic hordes.

Their very NATIONAL EXISTENCE is at stake, and only a united Scandinavian front against Russia will suffice in that situation.

MANY JOBS in Massachusetts "are going begging for lack of experienced workers," Governor Saltonstall recently advised members of the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club.

To offset this and to assist both employer and employe, the State is considering a system of short vocational training courses to equip workers for actual industrial vacancies requiring special skill.

The service will supplement the work of the Commonwealth's employment office, which has already found jobs for 25,000 persons.

Teaching men and women how to earn a living is practical and sensible.

LONDON SPINSTERS are highly indignant. To obtain their long-fought-for pensions, they must reveal their exact ages to employers. No longer will the government tolerate secrecy.

The plight and embarrassment of the British women will interest their Massachusetts sisters, particularly those who recall the furore which followed the remark of Acting Registrar of Motor Vehicles Anthony A. Bonzagni last July that "automobile licenses are filed under the penalty of perjury and women are obliged to tell the truth."

ELSIE ROBINSON
"I'm Glad I Have Life"

At that time hundreds of women wrote us.

They argued that the woman of 40 who looks "not a day over 25" should be permitted to keep world and government guessing.

They pointed out that in this era of improved styles, better cosmetics and intelligent attention to health, youth frequently abides long past middle age.

Their case won our support, and we gladly defended Miss and Mrs. Massachusetts, as other writers will undoubtedly defend the angered London spinsters.

Of course, not all women are sensitive or secretive about birthdays. Certainly not the 73-year-old Edna Wallace Hopper, who took up acrobatic dancing at 68.

Or Elsie Robinson, who at 56 takes her gifted pen and proudly writes:

"I'm glad I have life and glad I have dared to live it."

As we see it, age is a wholly personal matter. It's revelation or concealment is entirely up to the individual.

Hidden Beauty

AN artist strolling through the countryside . . . a wind-blown rustic beauty once espied . . . She stood barefoot, a basket on her arm . . . a dream of innocence and girlish charm.

He painted her against the cloudswept skies . . . her clinging gown, her touseled locks awhirl . . . with maiden coyness lurking in her eyes . . . and called the picture simply "Country Girl."

Unnumbered poet-painters since that day . . . have sought such hidden beauty to portray . . . for beauty all too often lies concealed . . . until the soul within it is revealed.

March of Events -:- By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU, 50 years old, looms over India. His shadow also falls straight across the British Empire.

Gandhi, with his goat milk and his spinning wheel and his mediaeval inhibitions, is passing. Nehru, Cambridge bred, a meat eater, rich, sports-loving, really more British than Hindu, and, what is most ominous to England, a Socialist is India's new hope.

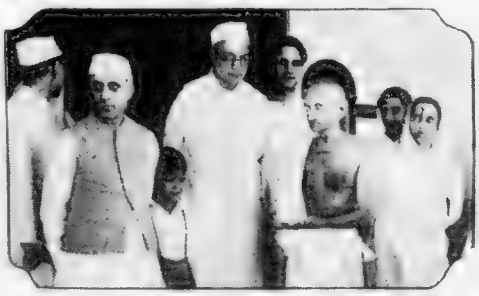
He's been in jail many times for following Gandhi's civil disobedience program. He is likely to go there again unless he has a rebel India in back of him when the time comes to declare India "free and independent."

For Nehru is for an Indian nation that shall chuck out Britain big and baggage, except commerce. Today England has nearly $5,000,000,000 invested in India.

JUST WHAT Nehru can do for India, if India shakes off England, is not clear to me. The task of raising those people to a decent level of existence is stupendous. He will be compelled not only to reconcile the Hindus and the Mohammedans, but he must contend against the centuries-old customs and superstitions of his own people, not to speak of the fabulously wealthy princes of India.

My reading of Indian history is that the greatest enemy of the Indian peoples has not been Britain but the Hindu rulers, who have for centuries ground their subjects down to the level of insects. Maybe that's the reason Nehru is a Socialist.

But if he is going to put that enslaving doctrine over on the country, when the moment comes to strike I imagine he'll have not only Great Britain on his hands but a civil war as well, for those fabulously heeled princes have armies of their own—well-heeled armies, too.



NEHRU, MAHATMA GANDHI AND FOLLOWERS
Can Britain and Powerful Hindu Rulers Stop Them?

BOOKS are today almost sensational news events. There are "Gone With the Wind" and "Grapes of Wrath," for instance. Almost everybody I meet, including my landlord and clothes-presser around the corner, greets me with "Wind" and "Wrath" queries.

For several weeks I have been countering with:

"Have you read 'How Green Was My Valley,' by Richard Llewellyn?"

If they profess ignorance of that fine novel of Welsh life, just issued by MacMillan, I tell them that they ought to buy it or get it out of their circulating library.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

GOLDEN BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 —My husband likes the ocean from the deck of a ship, even when the vessel rolls and pitches so much that most people retire to bed. My own appreciation of the ocean is always enhanced by being on dry land.

I have a thrill when I drive up the coast of Maine and the road runs close to the beach, or high above it, with a view of the bays and tree covered lands, or limitless stretches of water.

WHEN I first stepped out to the lawn of this house and looked across the water, two freighters were steaming by. The surf was pounding gently on the beach and it was lovely to see and hear it. The fascinating thing about the ocean is its change of color. One spot was emerald green and merged into very dark green and then gradually changed to blue.

There is a haze and the water is blue as far as I can see. Our house has windows on the ocean side that frame the view. There is a painting on the wall which looks like the bottom of the Marine Studio, for fish of every color are swimming around just as I saw them swim around the houseboat in which the President and I used to cruise among the Keys many years ago.

So far, it does not seem to me particularly warm here, but I hope that the climate will vindicate itself and give us plenty of sun. Perhaps it is being particularly considerate and not giving us too much at the start, so that we shall be spared a real sunburn. The house is filled with flowers which people have very kindly sent us.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Prefers Maine Coast

In addition, we were sent two large cakes. Both cakes are delicious. One is a cocoanut cake, which I feel sure is a specialty in these parts. I think we shall have to get some children to help us eat them.

Since our two days' conference in Washington, called by the National Youth Administration to consider occupations open to women, and the improvement of projects to help girls prepare themselves for some of these newer professions, I have had several interesting suggestions sent me.

I happened to mention in this column that occupational therapy seems to be a field open to women and that there is still a great demand for them.

I promptly received the most interesting letter from Miss Frances Holbrook, which told me about her Boston school for occupational therapy—the only one in New England, she says, approved by the American Medical Association.

She tells me they are trying to enlarge their plant and then will be able to train and place more girls. I am passing this information along to the National Youth Administration officials in the hope that they can work out something which will be of value to our girls in this field.

I RECEIVED a rather sad letter from an older woman of 50 who finds it very hard to carry on in this profession because so many doctors prefer young women.

She assures me that she is able to do the work well and expertly, and I wonder if 50 is not too young an age to lay a woman on the shelf in a profession which is admittedly in need of trained workers.

EVANS AND AHERNE FAIL TO MEET

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—When Brian Aherne was Eastward-bound, he spent one night in Amarillo, Texas. After he had retired to his hotel room he started to read the local newspaper, and learned that Maurice Evans' troupe was performing in Amarillo that one night . . . Brian phoned Evans at his hotel, four blocks away, and said: "Come on over here. It's been two years since we've seen each other' . . . "No, you come over to my hotel, Brian," Evans insisted . . . "But I've already retired for the night, Maurice," Aherne informed. "I'm in bed" . . . "Well, so am I, Brian," said Evans . . . "Well, goodbye, Maurice," said Aherne . . . "Goodbye, Brian," said Evans.

HELEN BRODERICK

DEFEAT: George Bernard Shaw's play, "Geneva," which closed last week, might have received more attention from the New York public, if the playwright's plans had not been frustrated . . . Shaw had arranged to make a special broadcast to America, a few minutes before the premiere. The British government, however, refused to permit this . . . "We can't consent to such a broadcast," the censors explained to him, "because we don't know what you're going to say" . . . "Well," Shaw told them, "neither do I."

PROMINENCE: Last week Secretary and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau purchased two tickets for "The Male Animal." Then they sought a third ticket . . . "They're all sold," was the answer, "but we'll be glad to place a chair in the aisle." Later their aide phone again. "Forget about that third ticket. The lady who was to join them said she'd feel too conspicuous sitting in the aisle. She'll wait her turn" . . . So Eleanor Roosevelt didn't see the show.

PROTEST: Shortly before Alexander Woollcott began his performance in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," he repeated to Hollywood friends his objections to Clifton Webb portraying Woollcott in the Chicago company . . . "Now just a minute," Helen Broderick protested. "After all, Alex—you're no Bull Montana."

BOAST: Sam Goldwyn invited Alfred Hitchcock, the director, to dine at his house, and said: 'One of the records I have established in the picture business, is a very unusual one," said Goldwyn. "In my 20 years in this industry, I have never been sued. Never' . . . "That's truly remarkable," Hitchcock assured him and 'he added. "But maybe it's better to have been sued and lost than never to have been sued at all" . . . Goldwyn pondered a minute, then shook his head, and said: "I disagree with you. No. I've always preferred to settle."

UNEXPECTED AND STUBBORN RESISTANCE to the Joe Martin-for-President [illegible] in Massachusetts . . . One of the G. O. P. bosses' contractors, a tremendous warhorse who has come through when the chips are down, has spoken plainly on candidacy for a favorite son. He has [illegible] political reasons . . . His objection is North Attleboro does not reflect the way on the great House leader, and is resented at the national headquarters . . . Nevertheless the contribution the Bay State man can make with Taft withdraw if Martin becomes a compromise candidate is hefty enough to hold back the sharp advice accompanying advice as to what the [illegible] with his money . . . Mr. Martin sincerely prefers the Speakership of the House at any rate. His friends say.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Lita Grey Chaplin displayed enough poise and talent at her Mayfair debut to justify debate on the question: Resolved: Lita Grey Chaplin could get by as Lita Grey . . . Lita reveals a new hairdo which resembles a toupee . . . It is made up of a million or so little crinkly curls which rest on her scalp with a list to starboard . . . The part side of her hair is coiffed if that's the word, like a boy's bobbed . . . It takes your mind off her singing long enough to let Lita get in vocal stride—and then she doesn't do half-badly.

WE DO NOT KNOW whether Lita exchanges Valentines with her former husband, Charles Chaplin, or whether the ashes of their once famous love are stirred occasionally by zephyrs of endearment or blasts of hate . . . We kept musing while following the lyrics of the songs in her present repertory as to their possible hidden depths regarding Charlie . . . The song "Here We Are" has pertinence when matched against their romance . . . The song "The Wife of the Life of the Party" might seem directed at the world's most famous comedian if one didn't happen to have been present at parties with Charlie . . . (He is by no means the life of any party when a gathering is fairly large and includes a smattering of strangers.)

LITA'S SONG about hunting for a flat in Manhattan tells an informal and frank little story about a sophisticated gal who falls for a guy with eyes of blue and a dimple in his chin (Sounds like a description of Joe or Jack Doyle, the Butcher who knocked himself out in a match last season . . . Lita paid somebody to write that song for her, and to us it seems that the former wife of Charles Chaplin evens any scores against her cruelly, if slightly, if such is her to event.

IF WE WERE THE world's most reserved [illegible] and worth, the lesser twelve million dollars Chaplin is known to possess [illegible] such a thought . . . we think we would give up about half of it to withdraw Lita from the floors if for no other reason than to keep it a secret . . . Meantime Walter Donahue gets better by the night . . . They're really CHEERING him now . . . And a quick sweep of the audience will show that most of

TWO-MINUTE STORY

WE CALLED HER "The Old Maid Aunt" and thought her prim and over-pious and that she had never had a beau. She lovingly tended her beautiful Blessed Virgin altar and taught us hymns, playing fine accompaniments, but never singing herself.

I was insulted when told that I resembled her in any way.

VISITING her 15 years later, when she was nearly blind, she gave me her well-worn copy of the "Imitation of Christ," long since memorized and showed me her habit of the Third Order of St. Francis which would be her shroud.

Her usual reticence fell from her and she told of her youth.

Her fiance's interest in her waned when she developed a goitre. Hurt and brokenhearted, she renounced all thoughts of love and family of her own. A fondness for singing was killed by family ridicule and this form of expression, of the church music she loved, was denied her.

Doctors wished to remove a lump in her breast. Terrified, she implored Our Lady to intercede for her cure, vowing eternal devotion and the maintenance of an altar in her honor.

She was healed and [illegible] kept her promise.

HER beloved piano sacrificed and her life's savings spent to help her sister's family, she was now penniless. Her Virgin Mary statue was still lovely among the faded paper flowers.

Wistfully, she deplored the unlighted vigil lamps, the oil for which she could no longer afford.

She died in the home kept by the Little Sisters of the Poor; the agony of gangrenous diabetes patiently borne. Her funeral mass was the usual 6 a. m. service, with burial in their plot. Impressive and appropriate for a devoted follower of the humble St. Francis and his Lady Poverty.

That day I would have been proud to be worthy of comparison with her.

We had "entertained an angel unawares" and the meek and patient "Old Maid Aunt" was in very truth a mystic and a saint.

The secret of a successful life [illegible] of course on your definition of success. If by "success" you mean a well-appointed comfort safety, [illegible] you've come to the wrong shop. I don't know how to live a life that will guarantee such returns, nor would I tell you if I did.

But if by "success" you mean an abundant life—a challenging colorful life—which will keep you interested and interesting until the end, then I can give you the answer in three words: KEEP LIFE DANGEROUS.

WHY DANGEROUS? Because that's the only way to keep active. And activity is the secret of growth, and constant growth is the basis of Big and Worthwhile Living.

That's why comfort is such a menace and pleasure such a peril.

Human beings never reach their greatest height when they're safe—when they can "take things easy." People get the most out of Life—and Life gets the most out of people—when the going's rough.

After studying more newspaper pictures of some of the Presidential candidates we are convinced that either the Republicans or the Democrats and maybe both, are making a serious mistake in not drafting Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, as a candidate, if only to put a little punch into the photos.

Mayor LaGuardia can give any candidate so far mugged the 15 bill and bar the side pockets, and still lick him at striking postures for the camera men, especially in the type of pictures that might be called human interest takes.

In the latest issue of pictures of presidential candidates to make the rotogravures is one of Uncle Jim Farley, apparently driving an old stage coach out in Illinois after re-establishing the postoffice where Lincoln served as postmaster.

It is supposed to be a human interest picture. It is a fine presentation of the ornate facade of Uncle Jim under a soft hat with an old time jimmywalkerish twist to the brim, but as a campaign picture we consider it positively gruesome.

It is plain, from the way Uncle Jim is holding the reins that he never was a mule skinner. Moreover, he seems somewhat embarrassed by his predicament.

He is wearing kid gloves, a detail that may seem unimportant at the moment, but which may come up later on in the campaign to plague Uncle Jim. What is he going to answer when, at a time when he may be endeavoring to convince the horny-handed tillers of the soil that he is one of them?

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia would have removed his coat to display his suspenders and would have borrowed a battered old lid from a bystander and would have perhaps inserted a chaw of terbacker in his pan as a touch of realism.

In the same issue of pictures that presented Uncle Jim Farley, we found Tom Dewey posing in a northwestern snow storm in a hat of the type usually worn by the trusted bookkeeper.

It looks too puritanical and uncompromising though we may say we have seen Tom Dewey wearing much more raffish dicers around New York. Perhaps this is just his traveling hat.

Speaking of Mr. Dewey and his headgear, we cannot help wondering how he is going to look with that mustache when some Indian tribe elects him a chief and claps a feather war bonnet on his knob, a quaint old custom of the American Indians with presidential candidates. We never saw an Indian chief with a mustache.

Candidate Robert Taft is nor-mally a derby hat man, but we have seen photos of him in a topper and also in a cap. The curious thing about Mr. Taft is that no matter what kind of a hat he wears he always looks like Robert Taft. He has none of the protean art of Mayor LaGuardia, who can put on a fireman's hat and look like a fireman and don a baseball pitcher's cap and look like Vernon Goofy Gomez in the stomach.

One of the latest campaign snapshots of Candidate Taft disclosed him at the horse races at Hialeah Park, down in Dade County, Florida, peering through a huge pair of field glasses. As we understand it, he was supposed to be watching a horse race.

On the infield of Hialeah Park are little lagoons swarming with big flamingo and bigger geese. We do not vouch for the story, but it is said that as Candidate Taft stared through the field glasses he was heard to remark to Mr. Davis:

"My goodness, there are a lot of mosquitoes swimming around in yon water."

At this moment someone reached out and deftly turned the field glasses around so Candidate Taft was photographed peeking through the proper end.

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD

Get Vitamin B for your Nerves

When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply will put color in your cheeks, enrich your blood, benefit your glands and other organs WITHOUT ALCOHOL OR HABIT-FORMING DRUGS

When your system is low in iron and vitamin B, all your organs slow down—you look bad, get tired easily, and feel pretty low. Iron makes red blood and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs. Improper blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health.

Your nerves need vitamin B and so do your stomach and bowels, if you don't have enough vitamin B you may get a painful neuritis, stomach upsets, constipation, weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep and you can suffer in other ways.

In these conditions, you need ENRICH, the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild cherries and gives you more iron every day than a bushel of spinach or box of raisins; more vitamin B daily than 8 ordinary cakes of yeast. Your pep comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B, and you eat more, stop worrying, and sleep better. Thousands of men and women feel keen and lead happier lives, through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait. ENRICH costs only a few cents a day. Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

AUDITIONS, CASH FOR SINGERS

Talented Evelyn, first violinist and lovely concertmistress of Phil Spitalny's popular all-girl "Hour of Charm" orchestra now appearing on the stage of the R. K. O. Boston Theater for a full week, was the first band member chosen by Mr. Spitalny when he decided to organize his orchestra.

He heard Evelyn at various recitals in New York, listened to her in a private audition, then signed her immediately.

Boston girl instrumentalists and vocalists are to have an opportunity to be heard by the same nationally famous orchestra leader in an audition contest, sponsored by the Boston American and the R. K. O Boston Theater, to uncover the city's leading feminine musical talent.

Although there are no current openings in the orchestra's personnel, nevertheless here is a rare opportunity to be judged by a stage and radio favorite and share in $85 in cash prizes.

Auditions will be held backstage at the Boston Theater at 9 o'clock next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Maestro Spitalny has agreed to hear all entrants, each day selecting the most promising talent.

Finalists will appear on the Boston stage on Wednesday night, Feb. 28, when the winners will be chosen by the audience.

Fifty dollars will go to the winner, $25 to second and $10 to third place. If you're a feminine instrumentalist or vocalist over 18 years old, here is the opportunity of a lifetime.

Just go backstage at the RKO Boston on any of the three audition mornings and have a try at winning a cash prize!

STAR—"Evelyn," violinist with Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm" Orchestra, was the first girl chosen for his all-girl band. She has been with the musical organization since its inception.

Cushions Afire At State House

Quick action by capitol police averted a serious fire in the State House today.

Guards discovered the cushions of a leather chair, near the Grand Army of the Republic headquarters on a basement floor at the rear of the building. Smoke filled the corridor, leading to offices of other veterans' organizations.

The cushions were blown out a window. Capitol police and the custodian's office started an investigation.

Hitler to Blast Britain to Welles

BERLIN, Feb. 23 (INS)—Germany's whole long list of grievances against England, starting with her alleged war responsibility and up to and including "piracy" on the seas, will be aired to United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on his arrival in Berlin next week, it was made known today.

President Roosevelt's emissary will be received promptly by Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, then by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Tentative arrangements for the reception have been completed. They will be made permanent as soon as word is received from the United States embassy in Rome as to the date of Welles' arrival. He is expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

WIFE STILL LOVES SPENCER

cer, whom the WPA worker had shattered for death, according to a police version of his story, remains loyal to her husband.

Even though he had given an engagement ring to the "other woman," identified by police as Mildred Irene "Dolly" O'Brien, a 33-year-old widow, Mrs. Spencer declared she still loves him.

The young wife went to the hospital to visit Spencer, but when he learned she was outside the door the wounded man rose as if trying to strike her, police said. As she walked away spurned by her husband, Mrs. Spencer again vowed her love for him.

WIFE STILL LOVES HIM

"I still love Charles and nothing can change the way I feel," she said. "He may have done something terrible, but I love him. He is mine and I will always stick to him."

It was during a bedside conference with police officials and Mrs. O'Brien that Spencer revealed how he went home after the Glickman shooting with the intention of killing his wife, police said.

The wife and wounded man embraced with mutual promises of love according to the police after giving the reckless details of the shootings a moment's reading up to them.

MRS. O'BRIEN'S STORY

Mrs. O'Brien's statements were summarized in part by police as follows:

"Spencer came to my rooms at about 5:45 p. m. yesterday. He said, 'I just shot a fellow.' I thought he was kidding. He said, 'Now that I've got blood on my hands, I'm going to finish the job. I'm going down to kill her. I've hated her for four years.'"

FRIENDLY SOME TIME

In response to a question, Mrs. O'Brien said that by "her" Spencer meant his wife. Continuing, she said.

"I pleaded with him not to do it. I said, 'Don't be crazy. You've got enough trouble now.' "Then he tore away from me and ran out."

"We had been friendly five or six months. He bought me an engagement ring," she added. "We first met when Spencer came to my apartment to repair my oil burner. We became friends and went to movie shows together. I don't drink although he does but I went to cafes with him. He told me he was separated from his wife.

"He took me to see his wife on Christmas Day. He introduced me and told his wife, 'I don't love you. I love Dolly and I want to marry her.' After I sat down and talked to his wife I told him I was all done and asked him to go back to her. The day after Christmas I gave him his ring back. He continued to pester me, but there was nothing I could do about it.

AT BEDSIDE

"Yesterday, when he came and told me there was blood on his hands and he intended to kill his wife, I didn't know what to do. He was apparently drunk.

"Then the sergeant (Sergt. Culleton who was later wounded by Spencer) and the officers came to my home last night and they asked me if I knew Spencer."

When Mrs. O'Brien arrived at Spencer's bedside, he took her hand and continued to hold it through out the interview.

"Don't drag her into this mess," he begged Capts. Keating and Daley, and Sgts. Raymond Monihan and Joseph Fallon. "She's a great friend. She had nothing to do with it."

After stating that he did not know the reason why he shot Dr. Glickman being under the influence of liquor and marihuana cigarettes at the time, Spencer confirmed the story of Mrs. O'Brien about visiting her apartment. Then he told of going to his East Springfield st. home

"I went back there to kill my wife," the slayer said.

He said that, on approaching his home, he saw police in the street outside, but walked right by them and up the stairs to the door of his apartment.

"I rapped on the door," he said, "and when I heard a key turn in the lock I fired three shots. I thought it was my wife."

Police said that Dr. Glickman knew Spencer, having examined his eyes previously, and that he also knew Mrs. Spencer, who had her eyes examined by him and purchased glasses through the optometrist.

Sergt. Edward Selboldt, police ballistics expert, established late yesterday, beyond doubt, that Spencer had shot himself, after examining the bullet taken from the wounded man's body and comparing it with test bullets fired from his pistol.

Secrecy Lid On Jail Death

said and pathologist for the State Department of Public Health.

The sheriff's action in calling the hearing came somewhat as a surprise since previously he had indicated he would wait for a report from Dr Alan R. Moritz, professor of legal medicine at Harvard and pathologist for the State Department of Public Health.

MARKS ON BODY

Meanwhile, the report of Medical Examiner Alling was made after the death certificate had been filed belatedly with Town Clerk Roland G. Wingate.

Dr. Alling reported the case sudden death — under investigation." He reported discovery of external marks on Kelley, including a small abrasion on the left elbow, a few light scratches on his thigh and about his left eye, and some bruises on his head.

Dr. Alling did not find as to the cause of death, but had turned the vital organs over to Dr. Moritz.

Reported of paramount interest at the hearing was the question of Kelley being left unattended until his death, although he admittedly was in a violent condition.

NOT HOSPITALIZED

Another question being considered was why the inmate was not transferred to the prison hospital for medical attention, although Dr. M. Shall the prison physician, was reported to have been a caller at the institution that morning.

One report had Kelley suffering from the effects of poison alcohol he had drunk from an automobile radiator.

Previously, Sheriff McElroy indicated the prisoner had been seized with "the horrors"—a condition resulting from acute alcoholism.

BE EXTRA CAREFUL NOW ABOUT COLDS! WHAT TO DO

Keep out of crowds as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Don't take needless chances. Don't experiment with untried medications. And be sure to have these two time-tested home-approved treatments on hand, ready to use.

How to Help PREVENT Colds Developing

At the first warning sneeze, sniffle, or Irritated feeling in your nose—use Vicks VA-TRO-NOL. Just put a few drops up each nostril. Right away you can feel Va-tro-nol stimulating Nature's own cold-fighting defenses. It actually helps to keep many colds from developing—or to throw them off in the early stages.

Remember this too . . . for swift relief from the suffocating stuffiness and congestion of a head cold use Vicks Va-tro-nol.

How to RELIEVE Miseries of Developed Colds

Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VAPORUB. Then spread a thick layer over chest and cover with warmed cloth. Immediately VapoRub starts to bring relief two direct ways: (1) Direct on the skin like an old-fashioned poultice or plaster; (2) at the same time, its medicated vapors are breathed in direct to irritated air passages. This poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves coughing, clears air passages, and eases muscular soreness and tightness.

Now Be Prepared—Get a bottle of Vicks VA-TRO-NOL and a jar of Vicks VAPORUB today and take the above precautions. They may save you a lot of sickness and worry.

EASY TO ENTER

Today, on this page, Puzzles No. 10 and No. 11. Tomorrow, we will print not only Puzzle No. 12 but all previous puzzles, enabling you to catch up and bring yourself entirely up to date.

Note how you add and subtract certain given letters and the letters in the names of the illustrated objects in order to arrive at the word the puzzle represents.

Note that in each puzzle there is a solution diagram which contains just as many blank squares as there are letters in the word represented.

PUZZLES DIVIDED INTO SERIES OF SIX

The puzzles are divided into weekly series of 6 puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week. Upon completion of each week's series in the Record and American (you can follow the contest in either paper) you send in your answers to the six puzzles together with 10c in coin. This weekly remittance qualifies your entry for a prize and entitles you to a special set of original Rebus Puzzles at the conclusion of the contest.

NEATNESS DOES NOT COUNT

In this contest you don't have to worry about ornamenting your submissions. Neatness does not count. There are no letters, essays or slogans to write and no subscriptions are required.

Be sure to get tomorrow's Record or American to catch up with the contest. Win your share of the $15,000.00!

SOLVE PUZZLE No. 11 AT LOWER LEFT. Then Get TOMORROW'S Daily Record or American for all puzzles of the Contest up to date.

PUZZLE NO. 10

WHAT WORD DOES THIS PUZZLE REPRESENT?
Add and Subtract the Letters given and the Letters in the Names of the Objects Pictured Fill in your solution above, one letter to each square, in the solution diagram that follows the equal sign.

MY NAME IS .....

MY ADDRESS IS .....

CITY ..... STATE .....

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., Feb. 19, to Sat., Feb. 24, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2068, before Midnight, Sat., March 2, together with 10c in coin. In return for remittances, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1. The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2. Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o The Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3. One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4. In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles, and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles, without assistance in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American, in case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5. In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed thereto. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6. Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualifications of contestant, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual prizes) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7. Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the Contestant.

You Can Be Beautiful

'Racing Red' Latest in Lipsticks

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S DARING . . . it's smart . . . it's racy! What? Why, the new "racing red" lipstick and dry rouge which has just made its debut under the auspices of a very famous beauty vendor.

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9325 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards 35 inch fabric and 2 yards lace edging.

To get this pattern send fifteen cents in coins to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th st., New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

Beauty hints by Arline Gould, every day in the Boston American.

It's as eager as spring, as brilliant as a jockey's jacket, as provocative as a wink . . . and more important, it is especially designed to be the perfect complement to gray, navy and beige, which are Fashion's edicts for the coming season.

Sigh, if you will, for the days when a lipstick was just a lipstick, and your mouth didn't match anything. But those days are gone. Today you can harmonize your make-up to your costume, to the very great benefit of both, for the cosmeticians make lipstick and rouge in a dozen or more shades.

Today every well-dressed woman needs at least three shades of lipstick, with harmonizing rouge and nail polish. For her new spring coat of navy, or her stunning gray ensemble, "Racing Red" is one of the smartest accents she can find. It is a glorious color and as becoming to the fair-skinned as to the tawny. It is what the French call "chi-chi."

The lipstick is of a delightful, creamy consistency and stays on like anything. The dry rouge is soft and adherent, and both come in smart ivory cases which you will be proud to haul out of your new bag.

Arline Gould will tell you where to get this new make-up to catch your Easter finery if you call her at LIBerty 4000, week-days 9 to 5 (we will be in on Saturday this week), or write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CLUBS IN CONCERT

Members of the Radcliffe Choral Society will raise their voices in song with the Harvard Glee Club in a joint concert in Sanders Theater March 7.

SPICED BRAZIL-NUT CHIPS

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

½ lb. soaked, sliced Brazil nut chips
1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
½ c. granulated sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

METHOD OF PREPARATION

To prepare the chips, soak shelled Brazil nuts in hot water for at least one-half hour, then cut in lengthwise slices. Spread nut chips in a shallow pan; pour butter over them. Then sprinkle the chips with the sugar and cinnamon, which have been mixed together. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for 20 to 30 min., stirring frequently.

K. C. Juniors In Concert

The Columbian Squires, junior order of the Knights of Columbus, will take part in their first annual declamation contest Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the Swiss Room of the Copley-Plaza, with Edward F. Coughlin, chairman of the Squires' state committee, as chairman.

Circles contests already have been held, and one squire has been chosen to represent each circle.

Judges will be Rev. William J. McCarthy, director of oratorical and debating societies of Catholic high schools in the Boston archdiocese; John J. Spillane, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, and Judge Swift.

Following the contest, members of the various circles of the squires will give a concert.

Trade Topic At Dinner

Women's City Club members will discuss reciprocal trade agreements at a dinner meeting at the club next Tuesday evening.

Guests of honor will be Dr. S. Shepard Jones of Cambridge, director of the World Peace Foundation, and Edward H. Cooley of West Newton, manager of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association, who will present the issues involved in lowering the excessive trade barriers.

Mrs. F. Winchester Denio of South Lincoln, chairman of the club's active public affairs committee, is in charge of the dinner.

Dining at the head table with the speakers and their wives will be Mr. and Mrs. La Rue Brown, Miss Marie J. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Driscoll, Mrs. Denio and Roger Johnson.

GEORGIA RESORT ATTRACTS BOSTONIANS

Sunny skies and a warm climate have lured many prominent Boston visitors to Sea Island, Ga. Among recent arrivals are Mrs. Robert M. Burnett of Southboro, with her sister, Mrs. William Adams Copeland of Chestnut Hill, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Malcolm of Cambridge and Mrs. Arthur J. Caulfield of Brookline.

By BETTY ALDEN

THE FORTHCOMING EXHIBITION of houses and housing, sponsored by the Smith College School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture, should prove a treasure trove to spring bridal couples gathering ideas for the very latest in modern homes and gardens . . .

Celebrating the 25th anniversary of the school and benefiting its scholarship fund, the exhibition will be open four days, beginning March 1, at the Hotel Somerset . . .

Special features of the four-day program will include the school's annual dinner in the Somerset Ballroom, Feb. 29, followed by a private view of the exhibition for sponsors only . . .

A list of sponsors of the affair reads like the pages of the social register and includes such prominent Bostonians as Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. deMenocal, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome C. Hunsaker, Mr. and Mrs. Augustin H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Peter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Phineas A. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan Sargent, Jr., Miss Mary Shreve, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Fay, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Standish Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald S. Ross, Mrs. Gardner W. Russell, Mrs. Warren Eustis, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Aldrich and Miss Betty A. Bartlett . . .

Collegiate Clippings

A MOONLIGHT HAY RIDE along the snowy seaside roads of the North Shore will be one of the special festivities of the winter carnival at Endicott Junior College, Prides Crossing, this weekend . . . Girls and their guests from a number of New England men's colleges, will include Elizabeth Chapin with Pierce Fredericks of Williams College, Jane Lang with Warren Jones of Yale, Marjorie Dickson with Thomas Carol of Harvard, Elaine Harris with Ben Kirkland of Hartford, Marilyn Paine with Rex Crandall of Wilbraham, Jean Tiger with Raymond Hayes of Dartmouth and Dorothy Dunham with Loren G. MacKinney of Harvard . . .

Harvardians invited to the carnival will have an opportunity to reciprocate when Eliot House holds its annual mid-winter formal dance on March 8 . . . According to their usual custom the men of Eliot House will entertain their guests at cocktails and dinner in the dining hall, and following dinner Harry Marshard and his men will play for dancing into the wee sma' hours . . . Loren MacKinney is chairman of the dance committee . . .

'Wedgees' For Spring

By ANNICE BRINK

YOUR FEET will be fascinating this season, if you are really chic. For never have we had such revolutionary designs, never such delightful foot-gear. And "Wedgees" are the leading news for spring.

Despite all the vagaries of fashion in the realm of hats and gowns, there has been little fundamental change in feminine footwear in years and years. Then the designers dared to break down tradition with play-time shoes and we got sandals with cork soles and new materials.

Then they began to cut out the toes and heels in our summer street shoes and we welcomed cool toes in happy, cool relief. And finally they came right out with something startlingly new . . . the wedge heel which gives one the height of a high heel without the wobble.

The shoes sketched today are the latest arrivals in a well known Boston shop whose shoes are of uniformly excellent quality and are not too expensive. One is a gabardine and patent sandal with a single slim strap and cut-outs at the sides.

Another is a high-cut monastic pump in gabardine with a moderate open toe and two bands of patent on the wedge heel. The third is an all patent sandal, open-toed and with cut-outs at the sides, with ankle strap. The solid patent wedge heel has a particular fit, just for fun.

Annice Brink will give you prices and tell you where to buy these smart new shoes, if you call LIBerty 4000 weekdays up to five. (and because of the holiday we shall be here Saturday this week) or write her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage Long-Standing Affair

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My father and his best man [illegible] ever since before the [illegible]. They don't [illegible] and they have a drug store [illegible]. I've never [illegible] but I can't stand [illegible] and I [illegible].

The last time they came, during the holidays, the girl and I were riding and I put my arm around her and wanted to kiss her. I thought she liked it, so I put my arm in that, and we've practically grown up together. She refused to let me kiss her and I'm afraid I've hurt her feelings. I am crazy about her, and I thought she liked me. She's so good and sweet, and I believe I'm the first boy she ever went out with. She is 17 and I am 18.

I've had a couple of letters from her since they left, but it seems to me there aren't as friendly as they used to be. I don't know what the matter is, and I hope you can help me out.

C.

I don't think you need worry about it's affair. It is probably a little shy, and is as frightened as you are. Perhaps she thinks you are angry because she wouldn't allow you to kiss her.

You should write every week and if you don't hear from her soon I would write to her and ask the reason of her silence when you are writing to her and make it a very light bit of news about school and town gossip.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Friday, February 23

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You could be a very outstanding [illegible] maybe hold some prominent position, especially in a public [illegible]. Cultivate persistency and [illegible]. Music and literary talent [illegible]. You should associate with [illegible] people whose aims are high and whose principles command respect. Do not permit modesty or a lack of self-confidence to keep you [illegible] they could well do from accomplishing the many fine things you can.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 57.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is Alice blue.

10 Smoking Rules

By MRS. BEECKMAN

1—Respect the point of view of the prejudices of people about smoking in your home, in other people's homes, in public places, and in your community.

2—Don't smoke in any place where "No Smoking" is requested.

3—Don't smoke when you sense that it will be or may be offensive to others.

4 Carry your own cigarettes.

5 When you remove a flake of tobacco from your mouth, remove it as unobtrusively as possible, between your thumb and finger, and put it on the side of the ash tray. Don't spit it out.

6 Ashes belong in an ash tray.

7 Be kind to furniture and furnishings. Be careful where you lay a lighted cigarette or cigar.

8 When you have finished smoking, be sure to put out your cigarette or cigar completely.

9 A girl or woman of good taste does not smoke on the street.

10 When someone offers you a cigarette, if you don't smoke, say a gracious "No, thank you."

Home and Kitchen

Quick-Trick Main Course Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

Sigh if you like for the days of spacious pine-floored kitchens with rag rugs, rockers, and rows of copper kettles, but thank the eat trimness of the kitchenette age for teaching us to toss together a meal in no time!

You have to let the manufacturers do some of the cooking for you, of course, and depend on that row of jars and cans and bottles to get you started.

What you need are some suggestions for quick-trick main course dishes that will make stout eating on a minimum of time and effort. For example, try a fat casserole full of ground steak browned with onion slivers and sauced with a can ful of real, home-style vegetarian soup. To seal in all the fine flavor top with an old fashioned crusting of corn bread batter. Bakes just a short time to prepare when you follow these supple directions.

STEAK AND VEGETABLE PIE WITH CORN BREAD TOPPING

1 lb ground round steak
1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp fat
3 tbsp flour
1 tsp. salt
Generous dash of pepper
1 sedium (16 oz.) can vegetarian soup

Brown the steak and onion in the fat, sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper and mix well. Pour in the soup, then stir until it reaches boiling point. Pour into casserole, making meat mixture about two inches deep. Top with corn bread batter and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

CORN BREAD TOPPING

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp baking powder
½ tsp salt
1 cup corn meal
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk
1 tbsp shortening, melted
1 egg white, stiffly beaten

Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together, stir in corn meal. Combine milk, egg yolk and melted shortening. Make a hole in the center of the dry ingredients, then pour in liquid all at once, stirring until smooth. Then fold in stiffly beaten egg white.

COFFEE IS "QUICKIE"

Coffee is a star by "quickie" popularity with today's modern maids which require a minimum of good coffee in a minimum of good time. Accurate measuring tablespoons of coffee or two level tablespoons to each measuring cup of water) makes for the best brew that stimulates. Following are the coffee theme ideas:

QUICK COFFEE WHIP

1 tbsp unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups double strength, fine hot brewed coffee
1 cup sugar
2 egg whites

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water, add 1 cup hot coffee, stir until gelatin dissolves. Add remaining coffee and sugar, stir until sugar dissolves. Pour into bowl which has been rinsed with cold water; chill until stiff. Beat with rotary beater until foamy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Makes 6 servings.

SPEEDY BISCUITS

2 cups flour
4 tsp baking powder
1 tsp salt
4 tbsp shortening
¾ cup milk

Sift ingredients together, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add milk all at once, stirring quickly to form a soft dough. Remove dough to lightly floured board and pat or roll out to ½ inch thickness. Cut and place on ungreased pan. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

INVENTIVE GENIUS MAKES U. S. GREAT

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

Industrialists throughout the nation are doing a fine thing this month in honoring the new American pioneers—the great scientists and inventors whose creative ideas make life more abundant for all of us.

It is timely to make awards to the unsung heroes of the laboratory. They are the real providers of more and better things for everybody.

Unless the human race is discriminating enough to reward excellence, then it is decadent indeed.

The sorry spectacle of the giant Russia in little Finland is a sequel to the unremitting battle for more than 22 years against excellence. With able generals liquidated in wholesale fashion, it is not surprising to see the army stumble.

Likewise, in Nazi Germany, great scientists, inventors, teachers, executives, and other builders of civilization were exiled on account of race or creed in the mistaken belief that their departure created job opportunities for brown shirts.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The creative mind in industry, the inventor, the applied scientist, the great manager in reality displaces no one, but instead creates jobs for tens of thousands.

WHAT EDISON DID

Take the case of Thomas A. Edison, whose ninety-third birthday was celebrated last week. Instead of displacing another worker, he created out of his fertile imagination the great electric light and power industry, and gave comforts and jobs to millions.

It has been computed that Edison's productive ideas created 26 billion dollars of wealth in the United States, and that seven billion dollars is earned yearly by steady employment provided by Edison's inventions.

An admirer recently estimated that one man in every nine employed in the manufacturing, mechanical and communications industries owes his job to Edison's mind.

SACRIFICES NEEDED

Under the conditions of the power age, business men, in considering politics, need seek no narrow selfish advantage. On the contrary, they will flourish best if the American system is preserved and the national economy is kept in balance.

Preservation of the American system means more than giving it lip service. It signifies willingness to make whatever personal sacrifices are necessary to protect the American way.

Stock Prices Mixed in Dull Trading

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Traders worked hesitantly today among fluctuating stock prices.

Trends were decidely mixed and operations were conducted at a slow tempo.

On the upside were Douglas, United Aircraft, Western Union, duPont, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward and Santa Fe. Downward moved Chrysler, American Smelting, International Nickel, Allied Chemical, Loft and Seaboard Air Line. The last two were fairly active.

Bonds were uneven in quiet dealings. Commodities generally gained a bit. Foreign sources were firm but turnovers were small.

Lack of decisive military movements in Europe was regarded from the financial viewpoint as a bar to the establishment of any specific trend in the world's main markets. Traders sought inspiration principally from domestic developments.

ICC AUTHORIZES B. & M. RATE CUTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Boston Maine and Maine Central railroads today to make drastic reductions in less-than-carload rates between points in Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire in order to meet truck competition.

The territory involved embraces extreme northeastern Massachusetts, the southwestern quarter of Maine and extreme southeastern New Hampshire.

The two railroads will establish, effective March 5, a new rate for all commodities in lieu of the present first class, second class, third class and fourth class rates. The new rate will be 90 per cent of the present first class rate.

The ICC said there has been a continuous falling off in the railroads' business and a continuous increase in the traffic handled by trucks.

RECORD APPLE SHIPMENTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—"Growers in New York and the New England States during January enjoyed a record-breaking movement of apples out of their cold storages." This was stated by Tom O'Neill, manager, New York and New England Apple Institute.

The January apple movement from New York State cold storages approximated 1 1/3 million bushels compared to a previous five-year average January movement of slightly more than 800,000 bushels.

Out of New England cold storages during January moved 412,000 bushels of apples which represented a January decrease of 36 per cent. In this movement, there were 320,000 bushels of McIntosh which represented a 43 per cent decrease of the reported January first New England holdings of this variety.

This splendid apple movement out of the northeastern states storages favorably reflected in the good January movement for the entire United States.

Rail Prosperity Seldom and Brief

Freight volume is the goose that lays the golden egg of orders for railroad equipment manufacturers . . . And therein lies a tale of feast and famine without industrial parallel . . . For the goose is neither fertile nor long lived . . .

ONLY TWICE . . . In the past five years has the industry feasted . . . The needle point peaks of the solid black line on the chart show the occasions when a golden repast was enjoyed . . . And these, it will be noted, coincide closely with the periods in which carloadings rose above 700,000 weekly . . . A total too seldom reached; too briefly held . . . Thus the short lived freight volume goose's frugality is explained . . . And the equipment industry, as a result, must match "years" of famine with "months" of feasting . . .

THE ANSWER . . . Is found in the situation railroad management contends with during the good and bad years . . . When carloadings rise above the 700,000 weekly mark, or give indisputable evidence of intent to do so, two things happen . . . First depleted railroad treasuries are bolstered . . . Second usable rolling stock shrinks . . . Thus the buying of new cars is facilitated, then forced . . . But once the total drops down management can afford to defer buying new cars . . . For the railroad managers are masters at patching up old equipment . . . And idle rolling stock gives them a chance to practice their art without fear of creating shortages . . .

FASHIONS . . . In investment take a front position in the ranks of fickleness . . . All because such a miscellany of factors rule them . . . At present these are more jumbled than usual . . . The Boston Fund's current report to stockholders puts the situation nicely in these words . . . "More important than the correction of short-term dislocations, as last year's war boomlet, are . . . The fundamental considerations with respect to the political trend . . . The price level of common stocks in relation to current and indicated earnings . . . and as compared to the price levels of various other types of securities . . . The underlying strength of the business structure . . . And the still growing though dormant threat of inflation . . ." On these factors current investment policy must rest . . .

APPRAISAL . . . Of the market on a day to day basis obviously cannot be made on the above factors . . . Any comments here, and we dare say elsewhere, are made on technical considerations . . . Or as attempts to measure the course of future events . . . About all any one knows at present is that stocks are cheap if taken at face value . . . But if the political trend becomes unfavorable . . . Or if bonds should suddenly weaken that cheapness would be a shallow thing . . . It can be truly said that contemporary events make it hazardous for sleepyheads to browse in the market place . . . For they may be unfortunate victims of accidents to trends that now seem secure . . .

• • •

THIS EVENING . . . Harry E. Howell will address the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants . . . At their regular meeting to be held at 16 West st. . . . Howell is controller of Grinnel Co., Inc., and subsidiaries of Providence . . . He is also a partner in Howell & Rison and a member of the Massachusetts Bar . . . Charles H. Cornell, assistant treasurer of the Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co., will preside . . . Howell's subject will be "Cost Reports for Operating Heads" in which he will describe the importance of cost reports upon which operating heads can depend and use for intelligent action.

Spitalny's Girl Stars Triumph at Boston

By PEGGY DOYLE

The eye have the advantage over the unseeing radio audiences, RKO Boston audiences are discovering this week at the popular vaudeville headquarters, as they view as well as listen to Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm."

PHIL SPITALNY
Band Big Hit at Boston

It's approximately four years since the suave Spitalny introduced the 30 charmers of his all-girl orchestra from a local stage. And, though they've been out of eyesight, their melody has lingered on over the air-waves every Sunday night.

At yesterday's opening show they proved to be even more entertaining on sight. Their musical talents became more and more apparent as the program progressed, build by the years.

Probably the band's outstanding artist is Evelyn who works magic with her violin, particularly when she is playing "Deep Purple" and "You and the Night and the Music." This attractive young woman also is the band's concertmistress as well as the arranger of its orchestrations.

Maxine, another darkly beautiful member of this talented aggregation, is its star vocalist. For the current engagement, her vocal selections are "Ain't What You Do?" and "Ave Maria."

The Three Little Words, a harmonizing trio, were in less lofty mood, their contribution being a story in miscellaneous song of the "Beer Barrel Polka." As they do it, like it all but said so.

Positively arresting is Jane Lor... in her impersonation of Newton's Academy Award winner, Hattie ... She capers in the role of ... hysterical and oppressed ... her "Human Bondage" character ... with uncanny skill. Other attention-getting impersonations ...

Then there was Marian McClenahan at the drums, who manages to inject some comic facial calisthenics into her really expert drumming.

Johnny Coy's tap-dancing is skilled enough so he is not completely overshadowed by the preponderance of feminine charm and competence. This latter aggregation finally take over in the latter half of the program, however, and even leave Maestro Spitalny hanging on the rope.

On the screen this week Victor McLaglen and Jackie Cooper are co-starred in "The Big Guy." Short features and newsreels complete the film program.

Olympia, Uptown Offer Two Hits

The Uptown and Olympia screens today offer two hits which have been box-office winners wherever they've been shown. They are the Charles Laughton starrer "Hunchback of Notre Dame," which opens at the Uptown, and "Lucky Partners," featuring Ronald Colman and Jean Arthur, which opens at the Olympia.

Based on Victor Hugo's famous novel, "Hunchback of Notre Dame" is a tragic story of the love of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of the cathedral, for the beautiful gypsy girl, Esmeralda. Cedric Hardwicke, Thomas Mitchell and Edmond O'Brien are also featured.

"Lucky Partners" is a delightful comedy of romance in which Colman and Miss Arthur are supported by Spring Byington, Harry Davenport and Cecil Cunningham.

Howard Offers Gala Midnight Show

"Midnight Scandals," with a cast of 60 headed by Diane Rochelle and Jeanie White, is the burlesque revue attraction for tonight's special midnight show at the Old Howard, starting at 11:30. Featured performers are Joe Freed, Max Bacon, Vera Wyle, the Seven Fabulys, Boo Laxon, Boyd Cable, Alma Manors and Dick Richards.

'Balalaika' Opens At Scollay, Modern

Balalaika," which discovers that enchanting Hungarian tidbit, Illona Massey, co-starred with Nelson Eddy, and "The Earl of Chicago," which is a thrilling entertaining, screen story starring Robert Montgomery, begin a week's engagement at the Scollay and Modern Theatres today.

'Brother Rat' Sequel Scores on Twin Bills

The VMI boys and their girl friends are here again. And the Paramount and Fenway theaters, on whose screens "Brother Rat and a Baby" is now unreeling, should show good profits at their respective box offices at week's end.

This sequel to the highly profitable "Brother Rat" of last year is faster and funnier and should prove another bonanza for the Brothers Warner. We hope that, like the Hardy and the Dr. Kildare series, it will carry on with continued comic film adventures.

The baby of the title is the playful offspring of Eddie Albert and Jane Bryan, the story's "Bing" Edwardses.

Wayne Morris and Ronald Reagan are his effervescent pals of Virginia Military Institute days, you'll recall. They are now alumni—but still undignified. Priscilla Lane and Jane Wyman are the sweethearts of the two unmarried members of the threesome.

The story is a bit of trivia but the acting skill and wholesome charm of the principals, together with Ray Enright's smart direction, combine to make "Brother Rat and a Baby" 87 minutes of wholesome and entertaining comedy

The boys and girls give most persuasive performances, and Arthur Treacher's stand butler is a nice contrast to their chilliness youthfulness. There are competent performances by Larry Williams, Jessie Busley, Henry O'Neill, Berton Churchill, Ed Gargan, Moroni Olsen and Nana Bryant.

HUSTON OPENS AT SHUBERT IN 'A PASSENGER TO BALI'

His New Play Fails to Impress

By PEGGY DOYLE

As vague and unsatisfying as his "Knickerbocker Holiday" was forthright and authoritative is your drama reporter's reluctant summation of Walter Huston's newest starring play, "A Passenger to Bali."

Even before last night's final curtain at the Shubert, it was clear as crystal that Mr. Huston—as well as his blasphemous, hellraising Rev. Mr. Walkes—had been done in but badly.

Not that Mr. Huston does not give his pseudo-cleric without a country substance and vigor at the few opportunities the script begrudges him. The fault is that this stage stalwart, one of the most important actors behind the footlights today, should have been beguiled into doing a play which was a first rate short story, might be an excellent movie but won't get to first base even with two Hustons in there pitching. (Actor Huston's able son, John, directed.)

Playwright Ellis St. Joseph just doesn't seem to have decided whether his play is to be symbolical, propaganda or just plain baffling.

It and the steamer, Roundabout get off to a slow-motion start in a Shanghai port, accelerated by the sudden appearance of a mysterious stranger. He will pay double to get passage to Bali. Against his better judgment, Captain English allows him to remain aboard.

Before Bali is reached the captain senses that his persistent passenger has upset his ship's morale. He is impatient to make port and to be quit of this undesirable fellow. But it is not to be. The authorities know all about the man who isn't the Rev. Mr. Walkes at all and he is not permitted to disembark.

There is unrest, even mutiny, on the ship, as well as plenty of wining of the coffee-skinned crew by mein host, the Rev. Mr. Walkes. Except for a few interludes when Mr. Huston overcomes the inadequacies of the script and assumes truly menacing proportions his Rev. Mr. Walkes is hardly the villain the ship's officers built him up to be. Somehow, all of it gives you a so-what feeling as the play progresses to nowhere.

William Harrigan has mastered an authentic Yorkshire accent for his blunt-spoken Mr. Slaughter and Colin Keith-Johnston does his best with the Captain English role. But, like Mr. Huston, they and all the rest but Cecil Humphreys' bland diplomat and Edgar Stehli's chuckling Minheer Van Maisys are handicapped by their material.

As far as your play reviewer is concerned, "A Passenger to Bali" never got anywhere but from Shanghai to Bali and back again.

Horrors Plus For Film Fans

Incredible but intensely exciting is "The Invisible Man Returns," the Trans-Lux Grade-A horror attraction for the week.

If you liked "The Invisible Man," you'll be doubly enthusiastic about its sequel, which is far more exciting than most gangster films but skips their brutalities.

Vincent Price plays the role created by Claude Rains, romping all over the Trans-Lux screen without his head, or mayhap his arm or his leg. Then, again, you gauge his whereabouts simply by observing a revolver or other objects move about the room. It is as ghostly as all get out and you'll have a lovely time.

The picture is a splendid example of what can be done on the screen by the special use of lighting and trick photography, and Director Joe May can take a bow for this.

Briefly, the story is this. Price, convicted of the murder of his brother and sentenced to be hanged, is given a serum injection which makes him invisible and succeeds in escaping from prison. The medico-scientist is desperately seeking an antidote before his friend becomes a killing maniac. At the same time, Price's invisibility is aiding his search for the real murderer, Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Both solve their problems almost simultaneously and his sweetheart, Nan Grey, is able to see Price again.

This is a creme de la creme of blood-curdlers but funny.—P. D.

Met Audiences Acclaim Hardys

By HARRIS MORGAN

Cast, director and studio are to be congratulated for maintaining the general excellence of the popular "Hardy" series in the newest screen chapter, "Judge Hardy and Son."

And the sincerest tribute to this most popular family film series was the large and appreciative audience that gathered early at the Metropolitan Theater for yesterday's first showing.

Andy Hardy is having "heart" trouble and financial stringencies again and Judge Hardy is the interested and interesting bystander.

But these problems assume lesser importance when the mother of the Hardys is stricken with pneumonia and the Clan Hardy is as one in their concern until this crisis is passed. The story closes with Mother Hardy convalescing and Andy's financial and girl problems solved for the nonce.

Meanwhile, Judge Hardy has saved an old couple from losing their home and brought their wealthy daughter to a sense of her responsibilities. This side plot provides opportunity to add two new interesting members to the cast—Maria Ouspenskaya and Egon Brecher.

June Preisser, baby vamp of "Babes in Arms," also makes her first appearance in the Hardy group, working her baby talk wiles on poor Andy until it looks as if his romance with Ann Rutherford will go agley.

Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone, as the title suggests, extend their man-to-man relationship in their latest co-starrer. There is an authentic father-and-son quality about their portrayals, and Mickey is to be particularly commended for giving up mugging for Lent.

The rest of the Hardys play their familiar roles with cozy charm. The cute little Preisser girl, who has been a footlights favorite of this department since she was in rompers a few years ago, is delightful as the kibitzing minx in Andy's uncertain love life.

George B. Seitz, who brought up the Hardys, has directed with a knowing sense of values, and altogether this latest chapter in the Hardy series should prove satisfying entertainment for all the family.

On the same bill, Boris Karloff and Margaret Lindsay are co-starring in "British Intelligence," exciting remake of "Three Faces East."

Boston's Movie Clock appears today on page 39.

'Robinsons' Is Adventure Treat

By PEGGY DOYLE

The fact that "Swiss Family Robinson" is steering only to the Hub's already lofty popularity quite clear-cut has served as a check on the fertile imaginations of RKO Radio's script writers.

Their reverence in shedding this immensely popular adventure classic for the screen has contributed to rob it of that highly dramatic quality it had for us in the reading.

It may be that age of plus to adult non-census-takers and too many adventure epics have sated our appreciation, for the largely juvenile audience at yesterday's Keith Memorial opening show appeared to enjoy it genuinely.

The moral tone, it seemed to us, has been over-emphasized. Thomas Mitchell, as the starring "Papa" Robinson who expects his family to shipwreck and the unknown perils of life on a tropical island to save them from the fleshpots of England, is called upon to look sanctimonious, severe and pontifical by turns. As you and I know, a twinkle or a quirk are so much more becoming.

"Swiss Family Robinson" is at its spectacular best in the shipwreck and typhoon sequences which are real enough to start you shivering in your overcoat.

Of the entire family, Barry Kelly Quadlas, the youngest member appears to have the most zest for adventuring. Edna Best, as the socially ambitious "Mama" Robinson, is petulant, unco-operative and apparently never heard of all that stout-fella-stiff-upper-lip stuff.

Terry Kilburn, recent Hub visitor, is the second youngest Robinson and a broth of a young actor. Bartholomew who has shot up like a young sapling, will take time getting reacquainted with Tim Holt, veteran screen star Jack Holt's son is the eldest of the Robinson boys and a handsome, capable performer he is.

ONE TRIP FROM WENDEL

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

By CARL TRUITT

CONTRARY to what a lot of folks seem to think, a hack-hand has to be something more than a busted down mechanic with his brains knocked out. They can kid all they want, but we guys have to know our jobs. Take last week, for instance:

I had old two-ply rag-robing sweet and forty on the in trip from Wendel with a scant load. It was after midnight, but it was still so hot that the oil would sweated to the surface the afternoon before, was [illegible] king on the corks with a spirit [illegible] tapping off a porous-plaster. Over the hills at the west the heat lightning hung almost as steady as an arc lamp.

That sucking on the doughnuts was bad enough, but just add to it the sleepy grind of the motor and a million stars blinking like they been up too long and you won't wonder why I was getting a bad case of bedroom peepers. Some of the gas-rounds depend on these nodoz pills to keep awake, but they always give me the cramps.

Buzz Colento gave me the spot as he whizzed past on the through run, then there wasn't anything to break the desert monotony but the stars, a million miles of grease-wood and buckbrush and the lights of Copper City blinking off in the desert to the north.

I took a squint back into the body of the car in the rear view mirror just to see how the load was riding. In the half-darkness everybody seemed to be resting. The little old maid, who boarded the crate at Wendel, was sitting as stiff as a ram-rod with a California fruit case across her bony knees, but she had her eyes shut.

A pair of honeymooners, that rushed in ahead of a dust storm at McKeever, were also asleep. A Basque sheep-herder was snoring, with his brogans half way across the aisle and his neck over the back of the seat. Those birds can sleep any place—any time.

Then I spotted this bozo on the cross seat at the rear, that we reserve for smokers and rag-heads. He had the brim of his slouch hat pulled way down over his glimmers, just like he did when he got on at Sumac, and even if I couldn't see his eyes, I got a hunch that he wasn't asleep.

A STRANGE MAN

He was a big bruiser alright—nothing like the type of fellows we usually see here on the desert. He didn't buy a ticket at Sumac, which was a funny stunt, and he didn't hop the bus until it was just pulling out. About all I could see of his pan when he paid his fare was a white scar that sliced diagonally across his bluish chin.

When I said, "Where to?" he chewed "Spenceville" out of the corner of his puffy lips. Like he was spitting at me.

I was kind of wondering about this geezer when I got the two lights up ahead, where the stub from Copper City connects with the main stem. I corked down and a skinny little guy gets out of the jitney that gave me the light. Then I saw it was the jewelry salesman, name: Abe Shapiro, out of Salt Lake that I'd dropped off there yesterday.

Lots of people don't know it, but these jewelry sellers do a good business in these mining and live-stock towns, and they peddle a pretty good line of stuff. Most of the miners and stockmen are pretty well heeled, and when they see something they like their lunch-hooks dive for the old kick.

This guy, Shapiro, hit the territory every six weeks and I was well acquainted with him. Right now he was holding a wrist-watch for me that I was counting on buying for Nina, my wife, when I got my next ham-and-egger.

Well, the driver of the jit yelled "Good-bye," twisted around in the buckbrush and high-tailed for Copper City. Abe Shapiro climbed in with his face split in a grin that lighted up all of his inlays.

"Have a pretty good day in Copper City?" I asked him while he was riffling off some folding money from a big thick roll, for his transportation.

"And how!" he come back, grinning even wider and his big, round black eyes beamed to show just how tickled he was.

He dropped into a seat in the middle of the car, setting his black sample-case between him and the window. I gave her the gun and shifted to pay-hole, and pretty quick the doughnuts were clacking the oil at speed for the last twenty-five-mile grind.

The passengers, the ones who'd waked up when I corked down at the stop, hitched themselves into more comfortable sleeping positions. The Basque didn't even know we'd stopped; the little old maid just closed her eyes without changing the stiff angle of her body; the honeymooners resumed their sleep.

I was thinking about what a kick Nina would get out of the wrist-watch, when out of the corner of the glass I caught a movement in the darkness at the rear. The big ugly bruiser was easing to his feet, then hitching forward, being mighty careful not to bump into anyone. He stepped over the Basque's sprawled-out legs, then edged his hulk into the seat beside the jewelry salesman.

TROUBLE AHEAD!

Abe looked up surprised-like, then followed the big guy's eyes to something he held in his lap, and his black eyes mooned like they were going to pop out. I could see the big guy screwing out some kind of words which meant a lot to the little fellow, if scared looks counted for anything. Abe licked his lips like he wanted to say something, and his Adam's apple pumped up and down like a piston, but the ugly look the big mug put on him kept him speechless.

The way the fellow had his elbow stiffened over the arm-rest almost talked, and I had a pretty good hunch what it was saying. But—what could I do? If, as I was almost sure from the way Abe acted, the big fist held a rod, and if I put in my thirty cents worth, somebody might get hurt.

I was sorry for the little cuss and I tried to get his eye in the glass to let him know that I was hep—but he was too scared to catch on.

I was playing innocent, but the old noodle was working overtime, and all the time that mirror was crowding me an eyeful.

Abe just sat there stiff, his eyes wild and his face a sickly green. Every once in a while his peepers would steal toward the thug's lap, then I could almost hear his teeth chatter. The big guy had his lips pulled back in a nasty sneer that just about wilted poor Abe.

When we get into the city limits of Spenceville, we stop at whatever corners the passengers want to get out. When we hit the edge of town this night, I saw the big guy's left hand reach for the bell-cord over Abe's head, with Abe ducking like he expected a wallop.

When the bruiser got to his feet he had the black samplecase under his right arm, and right under that there was a kind of bump in the coat pocket that had his hand in it, and that bump kept kind of fluttering toward Abe. With his mean eyes squinted hard back at the salesman, he edged down front toward the door.

TRAPPED!

Just like I didn't suspect anything wrong I pulled the lever that folds the doors back like an accordion, and just as his big right hoof reached for the top step I shot the lever back and swung my whole body against it.

I had him, all right, and it was funny. His left leg was kicking around inside of the hack and outside the thug was pawing the air for a handhold to keep his nose out of the dirt, and cussing the night blue. Naturally he had to drop the case and his gat, and they rattled on the pavement.

Abe Shapiro, following my order and grinning like a Cheshire cat, edged through a window and retrieved the case and gun, and if I haven't got the most deceiving ears on earth, he took a couple of pops at the bluish chin while he was doing it. Then he skited down the street and brought back a couple of cops on the run.

You should have heard the cops laugh when they saw how I'd trapped Big Ear Colosso, but Nina got the wristwatch, and we didn't have to wait for my ham-and-egger either.

THE END.

AUSTEN LAKE

Flowers to the Living: Orchids to Uncle Arthur

DON'T YOU THINK IT'S TIME SOMEBODY stopped firing cobblestones and tossed a few orchids at a dyspeptic fellow named Art Ross, who usually sits among his Bruins with a curdled expression, a camels hair coat and some sulphur tipping his tongue? Because Arthur has taken some lusty kicks in the hip pocket lately for daring to swap such press-box darlings as Tiny Thompson, Eddie Shore and Jack Portland for string, stamps and something out of the attic.

AUSTEN LAKE

We snowballed Ross when he sold Thompson last year for sordid cash and put an apple-cheeked unknown from never-never land in his nets. WHAT? —our Tiny, always spidering, sprawling, ragdolling and picking pucks out of his pads like a monkey plucking nits from its hide? Pooie!

We hollered again, but not so shrilly, when he shipped Jack Portland to the Blackhawk's sweatshop. WHAT?—big, beefy, heavy-duty Jack-the-wrecker who was never so happy as when skewering people on his stick, clubbing them over the pot or tieing them in butterfly bows. Boooo!

But when he sold Eddie Shore like a hunk of pot roast off a butcher's hook and took a Class B-2, league-worn player named Eddie Weisman, we wept in type for weeks. WHAT?—the heart, liver and lungs of the Bruins? Why hockey just wouldn't be hockey without the bald-meteor spilling 'em in big crockery smashes, dyeing the ice with his gore or choking enemy nets with pucks like it was fishing time off the Grand Banks and the hake and haddock were running in schools. Yeeeoow!

His Guesses Prove Correct

WELL WHAT HAPPENED? THOMPSON IS only a shadow in the short-lived memory of the fans, and Brimsek is Mr. Zero, the one-man Maginot line. And the Bruins, minus Shore and Portland, are rubbing ears with the Rangers in a hellityhoop rush toward mid-March and the playoffs. And Boston's pious, church-going people are twice-a-week maniacs again. And the early drip of money into the Bruins' tills has turned to a trickle and a torrent.

It's a popular pastime to take a paste at Ross—I biffed him a bit myself on that Shore nonsense! And why? Because Ross has no hero-worship in his system, has a curly puss and an airdale's growl, feuds with his fellow manager like a Kentucky mountaineer, knows no diplomatic tricks, is mulish, hammers a hard bargain and fizzes like a soda spigot. But he deals off the top, is a soft touch (if that's any virtue), is hockey's best brain and—sue me if you must—raised Boston hockey from a glorified glacial shinny to the most scientific, hell-for-leather game known to this sport-proud town.

When Ross sired the Bruins with C. F. Adams' money in '24-25, hockey had been an ice rodeo with such amateurs as Raymie Skilton, Ivy Small, George Percy, Jerry Geran and Red Synott raising nightly ruckuses and getting paid out of George V. Brown's tin box. So Ross became papa to Adams' National League franchise and signed a flock of amateur cameos that looked like something out of Ripley's Broadway Odditorium. All right! Since then the Bruins have won eight Prince of Wales Cups as Division champions and two Stanley Cups. And yet consider!—since 1918 neither the Red Sox nor Braves have won a single pennant! Are hockey players easier to find than baseball players, and if so, why don't the Blackhawks, Americans, Canadiens and Red Wings find 'em and bolster up their rundown properties? The answer is three consonants and a vowel—Ross!

Two Typographical Portraits

MY FAVORITE PORTRAITS OF ROSS ARE ON the March 24 night of 1938 at Toronto when the Maple Leafs were varnishing the Bruins and Connie Smythe was gyrating and shouting attention to the general mayhem which was going unpunished. Ross rose from his bench with senatorial dignity and said something to Referee Mickey Ion, pointing petulantly at Smythe, who made a pair of moose-antlers with his fingers and twiddled them suggestively with such effect that Uncle Arthur rearranged his coattails and sat down simmering with indignation. That's a fair sample of his goings on.

Well then, another night in an earlier Toronto playoff when Frank Patrick was managing the Bruins and Uncle, as business boss, was sitting back in the guest section. The Maple Leafs were going off tackle for steady gains and sinking mashie shots from the rough while the Toronto fans belched a steady roar which hurt the ears clear down to the thyroid glands. Patrick leaned his paws over the dashboard and let his jowls drip longer and looser as the pucks went whizzing past. I think that was the night that somebody skated over Frank's lower lip. And Uncle Art sat with his features puckered into such a compact snoot that it resembled a rosette which anybody with a bit of string could have tied up like the top of a burlap bag. It took the entire next summer for Uncle Arthur to get his puss unpuckered and next year he went back to the bench. So that is another picture of the growly old guy who never learned to lose.

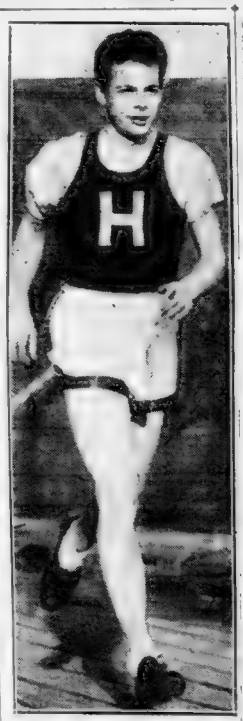
TIME TO CHEER FOR A MAN is while he is still fresh and Art may begin to stale any time. His health in late years has been brittle and though he is still fundamentally sound, as the statesmen in Washington say, he has withdrawn from nervous swirl and bustle of bench managing this year, and sitting a little apart where he can concentrate on his internal, silent screaming.

Personally I think Boston fans and fannies owe the old growly a vote of gratitude. In this time when sportfolk too often get 10 cents worth of action for their dollars, he has given a full, conscientious 100 pennies worth. May his shadow never grow less!

LIGHTBODY DOUBLES UP IN HARVARD TITLE BID

Jim Lightbody, great Harvard 600-yarder, today assumed the burden of running his favorite distance, and the 1000 only 35 minutes later, in a gallant plan to win the Quadrangular track crown for the underdog Crimson tomorrow night in the Garden.



LANGDON BURWELL
Threat in Two-Mile

Lightbody, who holds the Quad 600 mark of one minute, 12 4-10 seconds, is a heavy favorite to take that race, which starts at 8:45. But then he'll try to catch his breath and go to the mark at 9:20 for the 1000 and if James succeeds he'll have accomplished a great iron man feat.

In the 100 his chief rival probably will be Will Schmidt of Cornell, second last year in the event, and reported flying this year. He's not as fast as Lightbody in a half mile under normal conditions, but probably has enough to make it a wild gallop for his doubling-up rival tomorrow night.

CORNELL FAVORITE

When the points have been added up tomorrow night chances are that Cornell will have captured its first Quad title.

Harvard, defending champion, is closest rival for the Big Red because of its strength in the weights. Illness to key men has ruined the chances of Dartmouth, and Yale is figured out of the running.

Dartmouth's Hal Wonson, great miler, and soph sprinter Larry Ritter are ill. Wonson won the mile last year and was favored to repeat. Ritter has been labeled by Coach Hillman as the finest sprinter to enter Dartmouth in a decade.

The loss of the two men has ruined the chances of the Indians.

Always strong in the distance events, the New Yorkers may pick up from 13 to 15 points in the mile and two-mile.

Emery Wingerter of the Ithacans is the mile choice. Phil Hoag, also of Cornell, should place second.

VAULT MARK QUAVERS

Nat White, Cornell, is the two-mile choice, but he may be upset by Harvard's Langdon Burwell or Pete Tuttle.

Dartmouth's Don Blount should win both the broad and high jump. He won the broad last year and tied for first in the high.

The pole vault mark is another which probably will be broken. Yale's Tom Lussen, a consistent 14-footer, should break the record of 13 feet 6 inches set by Bill Harding of Yale in 1936.

Harvard may be able to retain its title by its superiority in the field events. Bill Shallow should easily repeat his record weight victory of a year ago, and Arnie Gale should also figure in the scoring. The other points in the 35-pound weight event probably will be shared by Warren McCutcheon and Kas Hipolit of Cornell.

George Downing and Howie Mendel of Harvard should take two of the first three places in the shot put with third place going to Fred West of Cornell, last year's winner.

Dave Wilson Picks Prompt Pay to Win Flamingo Stakes

By DAVE WILSON

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23—A lightning fast track for the Flamingo Stakes tomorrow at Hialeah will be the green traffic light which will clear the track for Prompt Pay to make it three straight for the Woolford Farms Stable in the three-year-old fixture.

Nothing short of a hurricane or a Mickey Finn will prevent this scrapping colt from duplicating the feats of Lawrin and Technician, those other two sons of the now dead sire Ineco.

Prompt Pay won his first two outings in fancy fashion, but ran a dismal race in the Bahamas Handicap when much was expected of him.

SANDE LIKES HIM

The latter annexed the three-year-old feature of the Florida season.

It may be treason for a student of form to chuck that race out of the reckoning, but on reflection as to what has happened in the past to this stable's three-year-old just before they won, that's what I'm doing.

The fact that most horsemen have said Prompt Pay is the horse to beat hasn't lessened my regard for him.

In fact, Earl Sande, who will saddle Victor Morn in this center, tabbed the Woolford colt as the one to beat while insisting 126 pounds is too much weight for his charge.

WOOF WOOF FOR PLACE

Prompt Pay looks like the only cayuse in the race which has the stuff to go the distance.

A flashy colt, John Hay Whitney's Woof Woof, winner of his only start here, is my choice to finish second in the event of fast track. However, I've yet to be convinced that he can go on.

Sweepida Wins $50,000 Derby

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22 (AP)—Conquering a field of sixteen rivals in an upset that left the favorites a badly beaten lot, California-bred Sweepida won the richest event for three-year-olds in the West—the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby.

A 30 to 1 shot in the betting booths, this spanking brown gelding, owned by H. C. Hill of Stockton, Cal., took the big purse—$43,850 to the winner—with a burst of speed that kept him on top of the field from wire to wire.

Ridden by Jockey Ralph Neves, Sweepida charged down the stretch in a battle with another outside candidate, Royal Crusader.

Weigh Anchor, a field entry, finished a close third, while the prides of Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware—Gallahadion, Fairy Chant, Maestro Sascha, Tough Hombre and other Eastern bluebloods trailed in out of the money. C. S. Howard's Mioland was fourth.

Royal Crusader, owned by Walter Hoffman's R. C. Stable of Ventura, Cal., won $10,000 for second place; William Ziegler, Jr., of New York, who saddled Weigh Anchor, won $5000 and Mioland $2500.

The winner paid off the fancy price of $68.60, $21.20 and $10; Royal Crusader paid $23 and $13, and Weigh Anchor $6.60.

NEWTON, RINDGE SET TO RETAIN LAURELS

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Forty-six high schools will send a grand total of 480 athletes to the Garden boards tomorrow afternoon for the 23d annual state indoor track and field meet, sponsored by the Massachusetts High School Athletic Association.

Competition will be in two classes with Newton defending titlist in A and Rindge Tech leading the championship chase in the B division.

From all indications, this pair of 1939 champions will be the teams to beat in this major indoor affair. Newton will have 16 opponents chasing after its pennant while Rindge will have 28.

ALPERT KEY MAN

Lawrence, winner in the two major meets this year, Lowell, Mechanic Arts and possibly Boston English should break up the point scoring enough to allow Newton to slip in.

The Garden City Club has at least 15 points on paper and this margin may be enough to win the title.

Bill Alpert again holds the secret of Newton's success.

He is figured on for first in the hurdles and standing broad jump. Bob Cotton should also score for Newton in the jump.

Newton's Fred Hall and Bob Ross, 600-yard twins, are other potential high scorers with the relay team, pitted against Brockton, almost sure of at least three markers.

In all events, the heats will be seeded so that all should provide thrillers, especially the final time trials in the 600 and 1000.

The 1000 will have Charlie Field, Mechanic Arts; Dave Blair, Medford; Bill MacMillan, Everett; Andy McMullin, Lawrence; Ralph Moir, Boston English; Joe Carey, Boston Latin; Tony Dubinsky, Lawrence, and Preston Ulteht, Brockton.

Newton's Hall and Ross top the 300-yarders, and they'll be pitted against John Turner, Lawrence; Walter Golas, Lowell; Walter Harrington, Lynn Classical; Joe Farraw, Mechanic Arts, and Bill Ellis, Boston Latin.

In Class B, Rindge Tech boasts a pair of first place winners in Harry Robart, in the shot, and Aaron Smith, in the broad jump, and a fine relay quartet to back up this duet.

Top competition is expected from Worcester Commerce with possibly New Bedford cutting in for its slice of honors.

RELAY PAIRINGS, CLASS A

Brookline vs. Boston Commerce vs. Everett.
Somerville vs. Boston Latin.
Lynn English vs. Lynn Classical.
Newton vs. Brookline.
Mechanic Arts vs. Boston English.

Olympics Seek Split in Series With Gaulois

By SAM BROGNA

Unsuccessful in their attempt to sew up second place and also reduce the margin between themselves and the league leading Sherbrooke Red Raiders, Boston's Olympics will give their all in the concluding game of their short series with St. Hyacinthe tonight at the North Station depot.

Set back by the surprising score of 5 to 2 before more than 15,000 fans in the opening game last night, the 'Pics still have one more fading chance of catching the Raiders. And that chance is tonight.

The cards are stacked against Hago Harrington's crew, however as both Frankie Spain and Jim Feeley will not be in uniform for the fray.

Frankie Spain

Spain has a bad shoulder while Feeley suffered a bad sprain above his right ankle last night and will be out for a week.

In Feeley's place, Harrington will use Art Smith. He will team with Ty Anderson. Jack Harris, who replaced Spain last night, will again play tonight.

Although the Os were on the short end of the 5 to 2 score last night the contest wasn't so lopsided as the score would seem.

The Olympics outplayed the visitors for more than two periods and outshot them for three but, the sensational goal tending of Rookie Paul Leclerc, who replaced Aurel Bordeleau, regular net minder, left behind with pneumonia, was responsible for the defeat. He had 37 saves to Moon's 23.

Bay State Six Seeks First Win Over G. B. I.

Schoolboy hockey promises to take its final bow of the winter season at the Arena tomorrow afternoon in a carload of fireworks when the Greater Boston and Bay State All-Stars hook up in a twin feature.

In the co-attraction, the All Star second teams will clash for consolation prizes.

Winners by identical scores in their holiday debuts, the cream of the scholastic hockey crop should provide a fitting climax to a hectic campaign in this annual mix-up.

The Bay Staters, after getting off to a slow start against the Eastern Mass. group, really showed plenty of ice knowledge in the last chapter. If they pick up from that point, they should apply the first defeat to the G. B. I. outfit since the teams have been meeting.

SHANNON IN GOAL

Waltham Perley Grant, Bob Connor and Hec Rousseau on the first Bay State line provide a powerful scoring punch that hardly diminished when Bob Mason, B. C. High, leads the second wave of Needham's Larry Arra and Mal McLeod onto the surface.

For a third line, the junior circuit will send Jim Edgeworth to team with Wellesley's Ray Villa and Homer Mills.

In goal, the Bay Staters will provide a pair of stonewalls in Bill Shannon, Watertown, and Spike Nyland, Wellesley.

Coach Evan Johnson's big scoring threat will be in his second line which finds Russ Priestly, Melrose, centering for team-mate Charlie Holt and Belmont Johnny Murphy.

Burkemo, Chapman In Amateur Final

Chapman defeated Briggs S. Cunningham of Green Farms, Conn., 5 and 3, yesterday while Burkemo advanced by default when I. L. Merrill, Jr., of Daytona Beach, Fla., was called home because of illness in his family.

Boston All-Stars Trip Montreal, 4-1

A disappointed Catholic high school, of Montreal, hockey team headed home today, smarting under a 4 to 1 defeat handed them by the Greater Boston Interscholastic League All Stars at Boston Garden.

B. C. SET TO CLINCH ICE TITLE

The Eagles of Boston College will attempt to clinch the New England Intercollegiate hockey title with conquests of Colby, tonight, and Boston University, tomorrow night. Both games, return jousts, will be contested on Arena ice.

Though the Chestnut Hill organization was considerably weakened when four members of the squad were injured in an automobile accident while en route to Hanover, N. H., earlier in the week, it shouldn't have too much trouble slipping kayo No. 2 on the Waterville collegians tonight.

Walter Cuenin

Tomorrow's tussle may be a different proposition, however.

Capt. Ralph Dougherty and Wally Cuenin, respective victims of a broken thumb and a nasty facial wound in the automobile accident, won't see action tonight.

Cuenin, who had 25 stitches taken to close a gash over his right eye will be out for the rest of the season. Dougherty may be used against B. U.

Two Sessions For Bees Rookies

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 23 (INS)—Manager Casey Stengel ordered two sessions today as he drove his Boston Bees rookie squad hard in an effort to teach the rudiments of hunting—both hitting and fielding them.

Allen Veigel, pitcher from Evansville, remained the only absentee. He notified Stengel he was confined to his home with influenza.

Fritz Suffering From Sinus Trouble

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 23 (INS)—Condition of Lefty Fritz Ostermueller, suffering a sinus infection, today worried the advance guard of the Boston Red Sox.

Manager Joe Cronin was inclined to believe the hot Florida sun would cure his hard-working southpaw. "Ostie" was struck by a terrific line drive four years ago from the bat of Hank Greenberg, Detroit slugger.

Ski Scribblings

BY "TAP" GOODENOUGH

SKI BOOM! The biggest Washington's Birthday week-end known in skiing circles is now well under way; most of New England's 750,000 skiers have been in harness since yesterday, and many others have been enjoying the sport all week . . .

Jammed to the rafters have been hotels and lodges in every key ski spot, crowded with carefree kanonen. The clear night air has been filled with happy songs and yodelling as gay gals and fellows gather in true comradeship, gaining health and happiness. Truly, "youth is playing in the laps of gods" . . .

All available lodgings were booked weeks in advance. Some are slumbering in bathtubs; while others are sleeping on skis placed across chairs. Some aren't even sleeping. But everyone is skiing, schussing with winged ecstasy . . .

Good conditions, the best of the year, greet all skiers over this long week-end. Runners are speeding down every slope knee-deep in paradise of powder, leaving tracks that almost smoke and flame in Alpine atmospheres.

WEEK-ENDITIES: Here's our own little Winter Sports Directory in brief . . .

For Ski Jumping Fans: Right here at home the Innitou Ski Runners of Woburn will conduct their own first annual jumping meet Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the local hill in the southeast slopes of Horn Pond Mountain, located off Pond st., Winchester, near the junction of the Woburn Parkway, a short distance off Route 3 . . . Members of the Innitou Jumping Team, Bill Moen, Birger Johnson, Alf Matheson, Iver Larson, Connie Nellsen, Odd Anderson, Carl Frederickson, and competitors from other clubs will take part. Bill Moen placed first in the Class B jumping meet held at Mt. Hood in Melrose

The most coveted jumping title in the United States will be sought after at Berlin, N. H., Sunday, in the National Meet. Sig Ulland, who won two years ago is here again all the way from the Pacific coast. Other contestants include the great and undefeated Torger Tokle, Mezzy Barber, Harold Sorenson and all of the other ski stars who soar skywards and almost disappear into space . . .

At South Lancaster, yesterday, the Massachusetts State ski jumping championships attracted a crowd of 10,000. This sanctioned event was being run for the tenth year . . .

For Carnival fans: The spotlight is turned on winter carnivals in three New Hampshire towns. These are Jaffrey, Whitefield, and Canaan where one may find sports ranging from sled dog racing to ice harness races and turkey suppers! . . .

For Ski Racing Fans: A sanctioned open slalom for men and women will take place at North Conway, N. H. . . . At Northfield, Vt., there will be an intercollegiate meet . . . The Eastern downhill championship will be decided on Mt. Greylock in Pittsfield, Mass. . . . And a slalom will be flagged at Manchester, Vt., all these set for Sunday . . .

For Fun and Dance Fans: Another famous Ski Dance awaits the baton tomorrow night at Ossipee, N. H., at the "Y" Hall. Paul Ross will have his band there, the same one that won such acclaim at the carnival. And the skiing at the Ossipee Slopes and Tow is nearly perfect . . .

SKI CLUB CHATTER: Racers of the Black and Blue Trail Smashers stole all the honors in the recent Newfound Region downhill and slalom championships on Mt. Cardigan. In a field of 60 runners representing the six regional clubs, Paul Leaver of the B. B. T. S. was first in the race, while his teammate, Gus Gay, placed second. Lucy Hawkes, brilliant girl skier from the same club, won the women's division of these races! . . . A quick clean-up! . . .

Dick Bradley and Carl Hellmer of the Wildcats Ski Club raced in the Eastern slope downhill on Bear Mountain last Sunday . . .

Postponed because of the St. Valentine's Day blizzard, "The Boston Ski Party" sponsored by the Oshonl Ski Club will be held on Feb. 29 at the Captain's Cabin in the Myles Standish. This probably means another blizzard! . . .

SKI SHOTS. Taking advantage of the local snow, a ski school is being held at the Oakley Country Club in Watertown. Bill Eagleson, who is directing activities here, was formerly connected with the Newfound Region ski school, and was also coach and captain of the Watertown Outing Club racing team. Assisting him will be Jack Andrews and William Gagnon, present coach of the Sargent College ski team. Regular classes will be held on the slopes every Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4.

Charles Beck of Philadelphia, who was chief measurer at the Olympic Winter Games in 1932 at Lake Placid, will officiate in similar capacity at the Eastern Ski Jumping Championships at Gilford-Laconia, March 2-3. Mr. Beck, has been acting as chief measurer in many major tournaments during the past 20 years.

The Cannon Mountain aerial tramway carried 2314 passengers over the three-day Lincoln's Birthday week-end! . . .

The Eastern Amateur Ski Association has announced that an examination for professional ski instructors will be given at North Conway, N. H., on Monday, March 11 . . .

Starting today, the South Station Theater will feature a condensed version of Hannes Schneider's famous film, "The Ski Chase" . . . It will consist of all action shots.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Walter's admirers weren't old enough to know that Walter's eldest brother was the best comedy hoofer in the world when Charles Chaplin was the husband of Lita Grey.

THE LONG ARM of coincidence reached out at the witching hour last night and gathered in the crook of its elbow an interesting assortment of parties into the Copley Plaza's popular grillroom . . . At different tables, chance had seated the men who were the Big Three of New England horse-racing three seasons ago . . . Lou Smith, Walter O'Hara and Alan Wilson . . . Smith is still in command at Rockingham, but Mr. O'Hara lost a spirited battle with more earthbound mortals, and Mr. Wilson returned to his very prosperous trucking business in some disillusionment and much relief, after successfully bossing Suffolk Downs.

*THE SAME MR. O'HARA was one of the reasons Mr. Wilson found relief away from the racetrack business . . . Well, Sir Walter of 'Gansett is drinking milk these days, and that takes a great deal of color away from the New England scene . . . He looks great, and is full of goodwill for all but his enemies . . . Reports that he is about to acquire a racing plant's site and a permit to operate a mutuel factory near Atlantic City were not denied . . . But he "will believe it when it happens" . . . That is, having had considerable experience with politics, Mr. O'Hara is being moderate in his hopes until the papers are signed, sealed and delivered this time . . .

LOU SMITH wished him the very best, and after Walter went to catch a train at the nearby station Mr. Wilson moved over to Mr. Smith's table and had a few words . . . Mr. Wilson no doubt wishes Mr. O'Hara the very best, too, as long as he stays in Atlantic City . . . Although we didn't dare to ask him . . . Oh, yes . . . Mr. Smith has plans beyond his darling little racetrack in the hills of New Hampshire . . .

A "ROCKINGHAM DERBY Special" will be run out of Boston, stopping at New York, and Mr. Smith is the organizer of the expedition . . . Entertainers will help the customers while away the hours between here and Louisville . . . The train will act as a luxury hotel while the customers are watching the races or touring old Kentucky . . .

STUFF ABOUT STEEDS

By Ken Kling

MIAMI, Fla.

Dear Aunt Hattie: Never knew how many people were interested in my family until I visited the race track.

Yesterday some guy tapped me on the back and wanted to know how my father's cousin is. When I tried to figure out what he was talking about he explained that he once played pinochle with him on a train. With that, the guy's eyes glanced toward my racing program, and he asked which nag I favored in the next trot.

To date I have been approached by a butcher who served my mother 30 years ago; a guy who moved us from Edgemere to Harlem in 1902; a man who made a corset for my grandmother, a gink who once bailed my uncle out of jail and a goof who was a witness at my mother-in-law's wedding. Race tracks may not do people much good, but they certainly help to restore memories.

Motion picture magnates who step on my feet the night before in some casino, graciously grant me the right of way when following me toward the mutual window.

At the track I've been invited to bridge games, fishing trips, golf matches, and dinner parties, but all these invites fade away if I don't happen to know the winner of the next race. Take it from one who knows, horseplayers make STRANGE BETFELLOWS.

The nags which may cop today are: MISS GALLANT, ZELKOVA, CENSOR and PERPETUATE.

Regards, KEN.

Mr. BOSTON

MOST SYSTEMS for beating the races are a bit daffy unless they are based on the old figures concerning times, class of horses and weights. It is nevertheless interesting to catch up with somebody who has developed what he considers a sure way of beating the ponies.

During my recent trip to Miami, Fla., I had occasion to visit St. Francis Hospital which is conducted by the same order of nuns that does such splendid work at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton. I was on the way to Hialeah Park at the time.

"There is a patient in the hospital who likes to place his bets at the track, and I know he will appreciate it if you will drop in and see him before you leave the hospital," I was told by a friend from Boston.

I did so, and was immediately asked for a newspaper that contained the entries for the races.

"Now give me a pack of cards," the patient said to his nurse.

The cards were shuffled, and 12 of them were placed on a table.

There were three No. 4's, two No. 8's and various other cards.

"The No. 4 horse is the one to play in the first race," said the patient. "He is 20 to 1 in the morning line, and so I shall play him to place and show."

We then took up the matter of who was going to win the second race.

"No. 8 has it," the patient said. "No. 8 is the second betting choice, and so I shall play him to win. Under my mystem if the cards name the first or second betting choice I place my money to win, while if the cards pick a long shot I play the price horse to place or show."

Down Pop a String of Winners

DAVE WILSON and Ken Kling, famous handicappers, were in the press box at Hialeah Park and I told them of the card system. I gave them the horses named by the cards, and both Dave and Ken were amazed when they saw the picks click.

I played the old figures, and a few paddock tips, and ended up with a loss of $12 for the day. The card system returned a profit of $22. Of course it is whacky, and must lose over a period of time, but it at least is exciting.

Back in the hospital after the races the better wasn't surprised when I dumped his winnings into his hands.

"I have been paying for my room in the hospital with my race track winnings," declared the patient. "I think there is a great deal of luck in the matter of picking winners, and why isn't it just as good to have faith in the cards as in the handicappers?"

I couldn't answer this argument in the face of the success scored by the cards.

If the card system proves successful, it may be necessary for Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park to place card tables in front of the clubhouse and grandstand to permit the boys and girls to permit the Goddess of Chance to decide their fate at the races.

Long Shot Players Having Field Day

THE LONG SHOT players have been having a field day at Hialeah Park. Some of the betters play the long shots blindly and they have been paying frequent visits to the payoff windows.

Howard Johnson told me he seldom bets on the races, but that during his recent visit to Hialeah Park he bought tickets on the long priced horses. His first four picks ran out of the money, and then a 40 to 1 shot gave him cause for a celebration.

"I figured that in a horse race most anything can happen," asserted Howard, "and so I like to bet on the long shots."

Johnson and Joe O'Connell of New York are associated in the restaurant business in Miami, and are doing well. Howard should like long shots as he ran one ice cream and hot dog stand into 130 successful roadside restaurants. Before going into the restaurant business Johnson used to be the Quincy news agent for this newspaper.

HENRY CHMIELEWSKI'S title as New England middleweight champion will be at stake when he collides with Babe Verila of New Bedford in a return bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Arena a week from tonight . . . Chmielewski recently won the middleweight crown when he outpunched Verila in a terrific battle at the Garden . . . Harry Kelley insists that Chmielewski tosses punches faster than any boxer in the world, and he says he isn't overlooking Joe Louis either.

Now that Al McCoy launched a successful comeback campaign in New York by defeating Buddy Scott of Texas there is renewed talk of a McCoy-Conn bout for the Boston Garden . . . Conn is in Miami Beach getting ready for his 15-round bout with Gus Lesnevich of Jersey City that will be held at the Orange Bowl on Feb. 28 . . .

Photos of hockey's fastest action are obtained by the amazing new light process invented by Prof. Harold E. Edgerton of M. I. T. At this game between the Boston Olympics and St. Hyacinthe's of Canada, which the latter won, 5 to 2, the pictures above and right were snapped with between 1-30,000th and 1-100,000th of a second light exposure. It stopped action completely, yet brought out all details of subjects.
